BARES POLICIES OF AMERICA ON WORLD ISSUES

Kellogg Sees Danger New Competitive Armament Construction---Pledges U. S. Aid To Bring Reduction In Address At Associated Press Luncheon.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—American policies on outstanding international issues were bared today by Secretary Kellogg in an address at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

On the question of armament limitation, the secretary of state said the United States government would "welcome an agreement which would complete the work begun in Washington" at the 1921 conference, "particularly as there is danger that the competitive construction, which formerly existed particularly with respect to capital ships, may still be continued, and in a less aggravated form, it is true, with respect to cruisers and other types of naval craft not dealt with by the Washington treaties.

Secretary Kellogg pledged in this connection that the delegates from the United States to the preliminary armaments conference in Geneva would "use their influence on projects which may be practical in their application and realizable in their development." To this end, he said, the American representatives "would help to the utmost of their ability in preparing the way for agreements for the further limitation of naval armament at no distant date."

Each Move Welcomed.

Each definite move toward disarmament, small though it be, is of greater value for the promotion of world peace than ambitious and all inclusive projects, which may be excellent in theory but which failed to take account of existing world problems, he said.

"The questions which have been submitted for the consideration of the preparatory commission are very general and sweeping in character and until there has been some discussion it is impossible to determine what definite proposals can most profitably be advanced, but when the most practicable line of action is determined this government can be counted upon to cooperate within the limits of its traditional policy in any serious effort toward the further limitation of the burden of armaments."

Regarding limitation of land armaments, Mr. Kellogg said this country already had "voluntarily reduced to the minimum.

Twelve Hurt In Blast On A Submarine

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 20 (By the Associated Press.)—Twelve men, members of the crew of the S-49, which was moored at a dock at the submarine base, were injured this morning when the after battery in the submersible exploded. All the men were taken to the base hospital. One may die.

The submarine, which returned from the Portsmouth navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., two weeks ago, had been moored at her berth and her battery was under process of being charged throughout the night. Escaping gas fumes are believed to have been the cause of the explosion.

The explosion produced a tremendous concussion which hurled the dozen men in the steel walled compartment against the side of the chamber. While many of them are suffering from the effects of gas and fire, it is believed that fractures of limbs constitute the greatest injuries.

Immediately after the explosion, the submarine base fire alarm was sounded, bringing scores of men to the scene, equipped with gas masks. The rescuers dropped into the submarine and carried out their injured comrades.

There were about thirty men in the forward battery and torpedo room, it was reported, who escaped with apparently little injury. Carbon monoxide fumes seeped into the forward chambers endangering the lives of the men there.

Try To Trace Guns Used In Prison Break

That officers are still trying to find out how Roy Smith, Fred Brown and Joe Dunn got the two guns with which they made their unsuccessful outbreak last September was indicated Tuesday when Warden Fenton called at the court house to obtain the weapons.

On instructions from Governor McMullen, he said, he and State Sheriff Condit will take or send the weapons to arms factories in the east and try to trace them by the serial numbers. One is a .45 Colt automatic and the other a .38 Smith and Wesson special.

The theory has been that the guns were slipped into the prison yard in a coal car, but all officers concerned would be better satisfied if they could get trace of the persons who did the slipping.

OFFER TO SETTLE SMITH ACCOUNTS

Woods Brothers To Make Proposal To Creditors Of Defunct Concern.

OMAHA, April 20.—(AP)—An offer by Woods Brothers corporation of Lincoln to settle its accounts with the defunct M. E. Smith company, will be submitted to creditors at a meeting in the office of B. H. Dunham, referee in bankruptcy, May 6. Another offer by L. E. Crofott and L. C. Nash of the C. B. Nash company, which owns the huge M. E. Smith building which housed the mercantile firm, will be considered at the same time.

The Woods offer to John P. Loomis, trustee in bankruptcy for the M. E. Smith company, provides a payment of $125,000 cash for the relinquishment by the creditors of all claims against the corporation.

The Nash-Crofott offer, offers to transfer a claim of $51,549 it holds against the defunct concern for the breach of lease to Mr. Loomis, providing he will discharge all claims of M. E. Smith and company against the C. B. Nash company.

CONVICTION OF COLONEL SEEN

Adjournment Of Military Court Without Comment Taken As Tacit Admission Williams Found Guilty Of Drunkenness.

FINDINGS SENT TO WASHINGTON HEADS

Sentence Expected Within a Few Weeks; Since He Was Not On Duty, Will Probably Only Be Reduced In Rank Or Numbers.

MARINE BASE, SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Col. Alexander S. Williams should know within two weeks whether he is to be dismissed from the marine corps, reduced in rank or dropped to a lower file on the promition list, for being drunk at a dinner party he gave in honor of Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler.

The colonel's conviction on a charge of intoxication, preferred by General Butler, was indicated yesterday when the courtmartial trying his case adjourned without saying what, if any, verdict it had reached.

This, officers familiar with courtmartial procedure explained, was the court's way of breaking the news to the defendant with the utmost courtesy permissible under naval regulations.

Reduction in numbers would not, in the opinion of officers here, strike a serious blow at the colonel's career, for there are only ten colonels junior to him on the promotion list.

MARINE BASE, SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 20—(By the Associated Press.)—Col. Alexander S. Williams yesterday drank the dregs of the cocktail he offered to Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler last month, when the military court trying him on a charge of intoxication preferred by the general adjourned under circumstances leaving no doubt as to his conviction.

While the court made no comment or announcemtn other than that

Another student delegation from Nebraska, composing 11 pupils of the eighth grade, made the trip to Lincoln with their teacher, Miss Vita Oberlender, and were shown through the capitol by State Superintendent Matzen, after which they spent the rest of the day sightseeing elsewhere in the city.

Law Defended Vigorously Against Charges Has Corrupted Youth; Baird Denies Conditions Bad Among Students.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The drys continued their roll call of the churches today before the senate prohibition committee and witnesses taken both from the cloth and from the laity responded with a swelling chorus of praise for the Volstead act.

With William F. McDowell, one of the ranking bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church taking the lead, the churchmen declared one after another that conditions had improved under the dry regime and that the return of beer and wine would be a sorry blow to morality and sobriety.

Bishop McDowell told the committee that the bootleggers and the law-breaking booze-consumer really were the plaintiffs in the suit for modification of the law. One of the bishop's colleagues on the Methodist board of temperance, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, added that illegal American distilling interests were

WANT PLACEK FOR GOVERNOR

Petitions Received To Put Wahoo Man's Name On Democratic Ballot.

Acceptance Of Filing Problematical; Once Refused to Enter Contest.

E. E. Placek of Wahoo has been placed in nomination for governor, in the democratic primary by means of a voters' petition from Loup City and Ashton, mailed by Clerk R. F. Roue of Sherman county to Secretary of State Pool. It was accompanied by a receipt showing payment of the $10 filing fee to Treasurer G. P. Bartek of Saunders county, where Placek resides.

C. F. Beushausen, Loup City publisher and County Clerk Rowe head the Placek petition. Mr. Beushausen was the democratic state representative from Sherman county in 1923.

Before Placek's name can be placed on the state primary ballot for governor, his acceptance in writing must be filed with the secretary of state. Whether he will consent to run is problematical. A gubernatorial petition in his behalf was filed several years ago, but he subsequently gave out a humorous statement declining it, saying he had heard no great public clamor demanding that he run.

Also Boomed for Congress.

In 1924, Placek filed himself as a democratic candidate for congress in the fourth district and made an energetic canvass, but was swamped in the Coolidge landslide. Some of his friends wanted him to make the congressional race again this year, believing the chance to be much better than two years ago, but the Wahoo man decided to stay out.

The petition from Sherman county contains sixty-four signatures, but sixteen of them cannot be counted because the signers' post office addresses are indicated by ditto marks instead of having the names of the places spelled out, as the law requires. However, this leaves forty-eight signatures in valid form, or nearly twice as many as the twenty-five which are sufficient under the law for a petition filing.

Placek is in business at Wahoo as a manufacturer of culverts. He has served a term or two in the state senate.

Ogden T. McClurg Wealthy Sportsman, Suffers a Stroke

McCLURG DEAD.

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP)—Ogden T. McClurg, wealthy head of A. C. McClurg and company, publishers and internationally known explorer and sportsman, died today, the result of a cerabral hemorrhage suffered late yesterday.

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Ogden T. McClurg, wealthy Chicago sportsman, explorer and head of a publishing company, is in a critical condition today suffering from a stroke due to cerebral hemorrhage.

All but unconscious he was found last night lying in a ditch at the side of a suburban road. A blanket from his automobile, which stood, nearby evidently had been wrapped around his shoulders when he got out of the car. It is believed McClurg felt the attack coming on and stepped out of the car to attract the attention of passing motorists, then fell into the ditch.

An occupant of a passing automobile notified a physician, who immediately went to McClurg's and and had him taken to a hospital.

During the world war McClurg was a lieutenant commander in the navy and only recently returned from an exploration tour of Yucatan and territory in Central America.

Kau District and Ranches In Kona Region Threatened By Fresh Streams; Hundreds of Sightseers Rushing to Scene.

EYE WITNESS TELLS OF LOSS OF VILLAGE

Hawaiian Park Superintendent Describes Destruction Of Hoopuloa and Rush Of Molten Rock River Into the Ocean.

HONOLULU, April 20.—(I. N. S.)—A new lava flow from Mauna Loa today was threatening ranches in the Kona district. An investigating party has been sent to its source by Dr. Thomas Jaggar, volcanoist of the United States geological survey.

A flow is also apparently directed toward the Kau district. Hundreds of sightseers are rushing to the scene and the district is being policed to keep them out of danger.

A graphic story of the destruction of the little fishing village of Hoopuloa was received by International News Service today from Superintendent Boles of the Hawaiian park, who was an eye witness.

"I spent the night in the forest where the lava flow crossed the road," he said. "I was much bothered throughout the night by the ash flakes of burning leaves and the gas fumes from the ground near the flow caused by the distillation of old vegerable matter. Underground streams ignited, burning with wierd blue flames.

Funding French War Debt May Be Completed Soon

PARIS, April 20.—(AP)—Official circles here Monday gave the impression that funding of France's war debt to the United States will be settled within a few days. Finance Minister Peret is known to be eager to get the difficult problem off the calendar and is doing all he can to hurry the negotiations to a conclusion.

The principles of the agreement have already been settled, and it is intimated in government circles that it is thought here that the few remaining details will be disposed of readily after the American senate has finished discussion of the Italian debt settlement. Minister Peret, according to present indications, will await the settlement at Washington before going to London to talk debts with Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exechequer.

Kidnaped Girl Is Recovered In New York

NEW YORK, April 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Police this morning reported the recovery of Emma Martucci, 10-year-old daughter of a wealthy Brookiyn tile manufacturer, who was kidnaped yesterday on her way from school.

The kidnapers had demanded $6,000 ransom, announcing their terms by telegraph messenger.

Police Push Search.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—A squad of twenty detectives today searched for kidnapers who whisked Emma Martucci, 10, from a street crowded with school children and sent her father, a wealthy Brooklyn tile manufacturer, a note threatening death to the girl and the entire family unless he paid $6,000 ransom.

The note was delivered by a telegraph messenger less than half an hour after the girl disappeared yesterday. From employes in the telegraph office the detectives got their single clue—a description of a "swarthy, short young man in cap and black suit who gave his name as Cohen and a fictious address.

Emma was kidnaped while on her way home from school in Brooklyn at noon. She left a group of playmates on a street corner to wait for her younger sister, Anna. When Anna arrived the older girl had disappeared.

The girl's father, Joseph Martucci, who has made almost a million dollars since he came from Sicily twelve years ago, received the threatening note within a few minutes after Anna returned home.

The note instructed him to give $6,000 to a Western Union messenger Wednesday morning. Otherwise, it said, "we will kill your whole family. You are closely watched."

CLOUD LIFTED FROM FORMER INTERIOR HEAD

Adolphe Messimy, Former French Minister of War, Admits Intrigues With Beautiful Dancer-Spy, Mata Hari, Who Was Executed---Malvy Cleared.

PARIS, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—A mystery involving Mata Hari, woman spy, has just been solved. The mystery was the identity of the wartime minister, his name beginning with M and ending with Y, who wrote gallant epistles to the mystic danseuse, who was executed in October, 1917, for espionage.

For years the enemies of Louis Malvy, once minister of the interior, had implicated him, but now Adolphe Messimy, former minister of war, admits the intrigues by the beautiful dancer-spy to whom he wrote the letters which she cherished until they were seized at her arrest.

It was believed by some that the senate, which convicted Malvy of having communication with the enemy and exiled him to Spain, knew the authorship of the letters, but other persons declared that they did not figure in his conviction.

Messimy's admission is contained in a letter to Mme. Zevering, a socialist writer, who in some way had learned that he was the author of the notes to Mata Hari.

Messimy's Letter.

The letter says:

"You ask me to bear witness to clear up an enigma and soften a sadness. You think this testimony may contribute to lessen the hateful vehemence of adversaries attacking my friend and old colleague, M. Malvy. * * *

"You recall to me that the French always have been most indulgent for the faults which brought Francis I and the Bearnais (meaning Henry IV,) a good part of their popularity. I know also that not only Frenchmen, but perhaps French women, are even more devoid of all tolerance and all amenity for the man who seeks to escape flattering advances, tempting and direct, of a woman, above all if she is famous and beautiful.

"Nevertheless, that is the true story of my relations with Mata Hari. During many months, fourteen years ago, she, by all the means of seduction which she knew how to employ in incomparable fashion, tried to acquire the right to call herself my mistress. I found her charming, but full of mystery and just as enticing as she was disquieting. I had the impudence not only to tell her that, but to write it to her."

Dies Before Firing Squad.

Mata Hari was declared by some persons to be Dutch. Others claim she was Japanese. She was conveying to the Germans the secret fortification of entente tanks and died before a firing squad on the parade grounds at Vincennes.

During a recent debate in the senate on the finance bill, M. Malvy was castigated by his opponents, presumably in connection with the Mata Hari case. During a bitter retort he taunted on the rostrum. Later he retired as minister of the interior in the cabinet of M. Briand in order to fight his enemies. For a time during the war Malvy was minister of the interior and Messimy was minister of war.

Coat Found Monday Not Frank Sharp's

The coat is too old to be the one owned by Sharp, Ostblom said.

PUSH NEARER ENTOMBED MEN

Rescuers Take New Hope In Effort To Save Six Entrapped Workers.

QUINCY, Cal., April 20.—(I. N. S.)—A human voice shortly before noon pierced the wall of stone and mud behind which six men are entombed in the Grizzly Creek tunnel of the Feather River Power Company reservoir project.

Workers driving madly at the last few feet of the cave in declared they heard distinctly the call of one of the entombed men. Prior to that faint murmurings had reached their ears indicating that some at least were alive behind the cave-in.

The workers attacked the remaining debris with new vigor and hoped early this afternoon to effect a rescue of the six men.

Discouraging Reports.

QUINCY, Cal. April 20.—(I. N. S.)—Discouraging reports came to the mouth of the Grizzly Creek tunnel of the Feather River Power Company today from the sixty workers who are battling desperately to reach six men entombed behind a twenty foot wall of rock sixty hours ago.

Two new slides during the night impeded progress of the rescue workers and a new cause of alarm was encountered. Muck and water was reached during the night indicating that the face of the tunnel may be flooded. In this event it is feared that the six men may have met death by drowning.

Richard Scott, superintendent of the tunnel work, announced that in the face of the new difficulties encountered it would be nightfall at least before the point at which the men are entombed by the cave in could be reached.

Twelve feet remained untouched today and much of it is heavy rock which can only be moved slowly.

The ground in the vicinity of the tunnel is snow covered adding to the difficulties of the workers.

NOYES WELCOMES LATIN-AMERICANS

Delegates From South Attend Annual Associated Press Luncheon.

Declares Approval Of Similar Organization On Southern Continent.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.) — Frank B. Noyes, presiding today at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, welcomed Latin-American publishers, gave a brief description of the Associated Press and offered a toast to President and Mrs. Coolidge. Mr. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star, is president of the Associated Press.

His remarks follow:

"Our luncheon this year is marked by a feature both pleasant and important, that of the presence of a number of the Latin-American delegates to the first Pan-American press congress, held last week in Washington. Some of these delegates are of our brotherhood of the Associated Press, and to them and to the delegates who are not of our number, I extend a most cordial and hearty welcome.

"One of the resolutions adopted at the Washington congress recommended the formation of a Pan-American or Latin-American press association and when this suggestion was made by Senor Montenegro, a distinguished journalist from Chile, I expressed the view which I repeat now, that the press of the United States, as represented by the Associated Press, would rejoice at an opportunity to co-operate in a movement to form in Latin America an organization of the newspapers of those countries, that would make them masters and not the clients of the news gathering organizations that serve them. The position of the Associated Press could not be otherwise, for absolute control by the newspapers constituting its membership is the very foundation of its organization.

Points To Canadians.

"This is best shown by the attitude toward its neighbor to the north. Many Canadian newspapers wished to become members of our Associated Press, but we argued and indeed insisted that it would in every way be better for them to form their own association, under which they would be masters of their news service, and we are now in full alliance with the Canadian Press, organized on the same lines as the Associated Press, but with the same independence of action as is enjoyed by our Associated Press.

"This was comparatively easy to accomplish, as to our immediate north one flag floats from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"The task of forming such an organization to the south is much more difficult and for that reason we have taken into full membership important newspapers through out Latin-America.

"It is entirely possible that our form of organization is not suitable to your conditions, but I am sure that you will find the basic principles of a Latin-American organization.

"You see the Associated Press here today. There is no separate entity. The Associated Press is merely the instrument through which 1,200 newspapers exchange news, one with the other, and collects original news throughout the world through a staff employed by these same 1,200 newspapers. There are no stocks and profits, and dividends are forbidden by its charter.

"The administration is through a board of directors of fifteen men, members of the organization.

News Non-Partisan.

"The news service must be non-partisan in its broadest and in its strictest sense; it must be without bias of any sort, and it must be as accurate as is humanly possible.

"Only one toast is offered at this annual occasion. Although we drink this toast in lawful fashion, I point out that this must not be construed as an evidence of bias on questions by the Associated Press.

"The members of the Associated Press, regardless of party affiliations, honor the great offic eof the President of the United States and are ever ready to evidence their respect and affection for the great American who fills it. I ask you to drink to the health and happiness of the president of the United States—Calvin Coolidge—and to the gracious and lovely lady of the White house."

Briefly Told News From The Wires

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—Declaring that should the League of Women Voters, in convention here, make an open declaration of its opposition to modification of the Volstead act, "it would wreck the league," Mrs. Casper Whitney, New York delegate Monday sought to dissuade the league from its intention to voice an opinion on the proposition.

PUEBLO, Colo. — (AP)—Frank Bishop and his son, Will, former officers of the closed Globe National bank of Denver, were sentenced to terms of ten and seven years at the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., and fined $10,000 and $2,000, respectively, by Federal Judge Foster Symes here Monday on their recent conviction on charges of misapplication of bank funds. The elder Bishop was sentenced to five years and fined $5,000 on each of two counts on which he was found guilty, while Will Bishop was sentenced to three years on one count, four years on another and fined $1,000 on each.

PASSAIC, N. J.—(AP)—"Peace, protection and victory" were the keynotes in the address of Albert Weisbord, youthful textile strike organizer, who returned Monday to the scene of strike activities under $30,000 bail after eight days in jail on four indictments for inciting to riot, hostility to government and conspiracy. Weisbord addressed nearly 3,000 of his followers in a vacant lot in Wallington, donated by Mayor Samuel Nelkin for the strikers' use. He was given a big ovation and received two large baskets of flowers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.,(AP)—It cost Susie Seebon $25 to be kind to a stray dog. Several times she had fed the animal, which ran loose and bit a boy Saturday. Although fined $25 Monday for harboring a vicious dog. Feeding of a stray dog renders the feeder responsible for any damage it may do, the judge ruled.

Started Florida Boom, 'Tis Said

James J. Hunter, a Scot, was shipwrecked on the Florida coast in 1882 and went ashore at what was then a swamp. He erected a hut and claimed the land as his own, later making a fortune in buying and selling lots which are now a part of Palm Beach. Such is the story told by Mr. Hunter in London, which he is preparing to leave to return to the resort which he founded and see the boom which he, in a way, started.

MAY HAVE FOUND SHARP OVERCOAT

But Officers Doubt Value of Discovery Near Havelock.

An overcoat that might be the one lost by Frank Sharp and sought for widely by officers probing the murder of Mrs. Harriette Sharp March 16, was found Monday afternoon west of Hebb Motor works by A. H. Grinsted of 126 North Twenty-fourth street, Lincoln.

It was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Ira Vorhies, who does not believe it to be the same garment for which a search was conducted. Although black and covered with stains of some sort, it is old and torn while Sharp's coat was comparatively new. Further investigation will be conducted Tuesday and Arthur Ostbloum, son of the murder victim, will be asked to look at the coat.

Sharp's coat and cap disappeared on the night when his wife was murdered in his car. He claimed they were taken from him by the three bandits who also took his wife and auto. A long search by officers and private citizens, carried on for the most part east of the Hebb Motor works, led to discovery of a cap but no coat.

Mr. Grinsted is a railroad man and was working a switch engine on the tracks when he noticed the coat.

Northwestern Cow And Hen Special In Northern Nebraska

BY OLE BUCK.

Crofton folks to the number of 1,006 turned out to visit the exhibits on the Northwestern cow and hen special, and to the state pictures in the evening. Merchants put on a special bargain day. In this section of the state more than usual interest is shown in sweet clover. Dairying and poultry culture is becoming more and more of a business every year.

Hartington provided twenty-seven contests to increase interest in the special. Among them were prizes for the largest family of boys, the oldest couple, the largest purchase, the oldest Ford to come to town under its own power, the fattest baby, and numerous others. Cedar county has taken advantage of the opportunities offered by the university extension department in many ways. One outgrowth of this is the Northeast Nebraska Poultry association with a membership of one hundred. It held a 2-day poultry show last December.

For a little town of about 500 people, Winside is almost in a class by itself. It has paved streets, a sewer system, city owned light plant, and most other modern conveniences. Corn is the big crop, and all of it and more is fed right at home. More than six hundred cars of livestock was shipped out of that statiton last year. Visitors to the cow and hen special at this point numbered 690.

Unusual interest is taken in the promotion of livestock growing in the Wayne country, that section being noted for its calf and pig clubs. No section of the country is more prosperous. While the red cow and the hog are the money makers there is a constant and growing interest in the cow and hen.

The institution in which Wayne folks take greatest pride is the state normal college. It is next to the oldest normal school in the state, and is excellently equipped. Building operations here are under the direction of the president of the college. This means that every building will be completed several thousand dollars under the first estimate and cost.

By unanimous consent, George Jackson, secretary of the state fair, has been elected chaplain of the cow and hen special. He gave an excellent talk to the young people at the Methodist church at Wayne Sunday evening.

MIDWEST FARM LEADERS BREAK WITH JARDINE

Secretary Urges Tincher Bill, Delegation Emphatically Condemns It.

Corn Belt Group Declares Administration Measure Doesn't Meet Need.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Administration forces supporting the Tincher farm relief bill and the middle-western delegation backing the corn plan Monday came to the parting of the ways. Secretary Jardine urged the Tincher bill before the house agriculture committee, while the delegation issued a statement affirming its "emphatic disapproval" of the measure and terming it "pink pills for pale people."

Mr. Jardine assured the committee that the president approved the general principles of the Tincher plan, to extend credit to farmers' co-operative associations and set up a federal farm board to promote profitable marketing. As to the corn belt bill, the secretary looked with disfavor on its provisions for a stabilization of prices by levying an equalization fee on basic farm commodties.

Secretary Jardine told the committee that the Tincher bill "does not propose any artificial disposition of the surplus, such as would lead to an aggravated situation later."

It involves no governmental price fixing, nor does it put the government into the business of handling farm products, he added, "it is not a threat to consumers but is instead a contribution to the general stability of supply and markets."

Sees Widespread Benefit.

"It keeps the business of marketing farm products in the hands of farm-controlled agencies, where it belongs. It is sound, constructive and will benefit every farmer in the United States."

The corn belt delegations asserted in their statements that the Tincher bill and the Fort proposal, a somewhat similar measure, "merely provide for another governmental loaning agency," and added:

"Neither individual farmers nor co-operative associations want to borrow any more money. They do not want to get into any more debt. What they want is a price for their products. Neither of these bills addresses itself to the task of securing a better price for the farmer.

"The farm organizations came to this congress with a definite understanding of what th eagricultural problem actually is. They have submitted a legislative proposal addressed to the solution of the problem as it is. They know that the farmer is out of step with the divine music of the universe. Farmers feel that they know best the sort of legislation necessary to procure equality for agriculture.

Have Definite Aim.

"They realize that any legislation that does not make the existing tariff effective will not enable the farmer to secure a domestic price for such of his products as are consumed in America, independent of a world price received for the surplus. Any legislation that does not address itself directly to bringing about this result will not meet the the situation.

"Chronic economic maladjustment, indefensible disparity in prices between what the farmer pays for what he uses and receives for what he produces has existed for more than six years," continued the delegation's statement.

"This situation resulted from the development, as a profound national policy, of America's protective system. This protection was provided through a series of paternalistic laws such as the Ferdney-McCumber tariff act; Esch-Cummins transportation act; Adams law; acts restricting immigration; federal reserve act; Webb, Edge and Pomerene acts; interstate commerce commission; eight hour laws everywhere, and all regulations and fixing of price of legislative protection for groups compels the American farmer to buy everything he uses in America.

"In spite of the fact that all other American groups are enabled to and do fix price of their service and production, farmers of America cannot bargin collectively and cannot have anything to say about the price they receive for staple products."

Council To Make Study of Public Service Co. Offer

City officials were reluctant to comment Monday afternon on the proposal of the Lincoln Public Service company to make a physical connection of its plant with that of the municipal light plant and supply the city with current in an emergency.

Commissioner Schroeder ,head of the water and light department, refused to be quoted further than "I must give the poposal thorough consideratioi."

A petition requesting that a corner at Thirty-third and D streets be designated on the zoning "use" map for local business was referred to the building inspector. Protests against the location also went to the inspector.

The council approved a suggestion by the legal department that allocation of the investments and expenses of the Lincoln Gas company be deferred three months, and Commissioner Gillaspie was authorized to employ an auditor to take a statement of the financial condition of University Place. The suburban council has agreed to the proposal.

An amendment to the zoning ordinance increasing the height of buildings in the commercial district was read twice at the request of Mayor Zehrung who said that the builders of a new building at Thirteenth and N streets were anxious to know it would pass.

Nikolas Cassales deeded the city a strip of ground thirty feet wide on South Seventeenth street between Dakota and High for $250. This opens the street from the city limits to the state fair grounds.

A resident of Fifty-sixth and Randolph was denied a permit to erect a combination residence and restaurant. The property was brought into the city after the zoning "use" map was made and is classified as residential until action can be taken by the council defining local business locations.

DEBT AGREEMENT ATTACKED AGAIN

Walsh's Onslaught On Italian Settlement Met By Reed's Defense.

Nye Of Dakota, Suggests Liquidating Farmer's Debts On Same Plan.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Italian debt settlement returned to the center of the senate stage Monday and was subjected to an attack that met a stiff defense of the agreement of the American debt funding commission.

With final vote set for late Wednesday, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, declared that "we must refund this debt now and Italy must be permitted to balance its budget, or Italy will never be in a position to pay us anything," while Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, assailed the agreement and Mussolini. The recent speech of the Italian premier in Tripoli, he declared, "bristles with bellicose bluster."

In the midst of the spirited debate a concurrent resolution was offered by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, providing that the United States settle on the terms contained in the Italian agreement with all its debtors and particularly farmers for indebtedness created by reason of the world war.

Farmers should be permitted sixty-two years in which to liquidate their debts to the government and should be charged the same interest rate as Italy pays, Senator Nye said, "so that the United States may be dealing with its own people at least as liberally as it deals with foreign debtor nations."

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the funding commission, expressed an opinion that "it will be a long, long time before we get another chance if the senate does not approve this settlement."

Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, reiterated his contention that the settlement cancels the debt and the agreement would stop the United States from demanding increased payments in the future in the event Italy is able to pay more than the stipulated sums.

NEW YORK PLANS DRY REFERENDUM

Assembly's Bill Will Probably Be Signed By Smith.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—A bill for a state referendum on prohibition modification, passed by the legislature, was in the friendly hands of Governor Smith today. Prohibitionists threaten to refrain from voting on the matter.

The assembly last night passed the bill by 87 to 62. It was passed by the senate last week and becomes law if signed by the governor. Governor Smith is known to favor a referendum, although he refrained from commenting on the bill while it was before the legislature.

Just before its passage, the Rev. O. R. Miller, superintendent of the New York Civic league, warned republican candidates next November. The refrendum would coincide with the fall elections.

"I believe that all the dry organizations of the state and many of the women's organization will advise their members and friends not to vote at all on that proposition," Mr. Miller said.

"The result will be that 100,000 up-state farmers will be so irritated that they will not go to the polls, although they would do so if the republican party had not betrayed the people and played false to its party pledges."

The referendum act provides that the voters shall pass on this question: "Should the congress of the United States modify the federal act to enforce the eighteenth amendment so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states."

The question was framed by Elihu Root.

GANGSTERS' TOLL BIG

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Eighty-seven men, including six policemen, have been killed by liquor gangsters in Chicago in the last two and a half years, it was revealed in lists made public Monday by John Stege, deputy chief of detectives. Captain Stege said the murders prompted by the traffic in illicit liquor had increased three fold in recent months. His figures showed 10 slayings in two and one-half months in 1923; 11 in 1924; 43 in 1925 and 23 in the first three and one-half months of this year.

Publicity Man Is Greatest Problem Advertising Head

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—The paid publicity experts was pronounced the worst problem of the advertising managers of newspapers in the annual report of the bureau of advertising of the Americans newspaper association presented to the directors yesterday. The report will be put before the association Wednesday.

A committee of the bureau reported that in some cases large sums originally intended for newspaper advertising has been diverted when publicity men had assured the advertisers that equal space could be obtained at a fraction of thecost through free publicity.

The remedy is "in the hands of the publishers of newspapers," the report said, "who can stop the flood of destructive material by instructing their editors better to inform themselves about the character of free publicity. x x The editor rather than the press agent, is responsible for this condition."

The report placed the membership of the association at 366 newspapers, a gain of three over last year.

Issue Permit For Catholic School

Building Inspector Peck Monday afternoon issued a permit for the construction of the first section of a school of the Blessed Sacrament church at 2500 South Seventeenth street. The permit calls for a full basement and first floor to cost $50,000. The material will be brick and concrete.

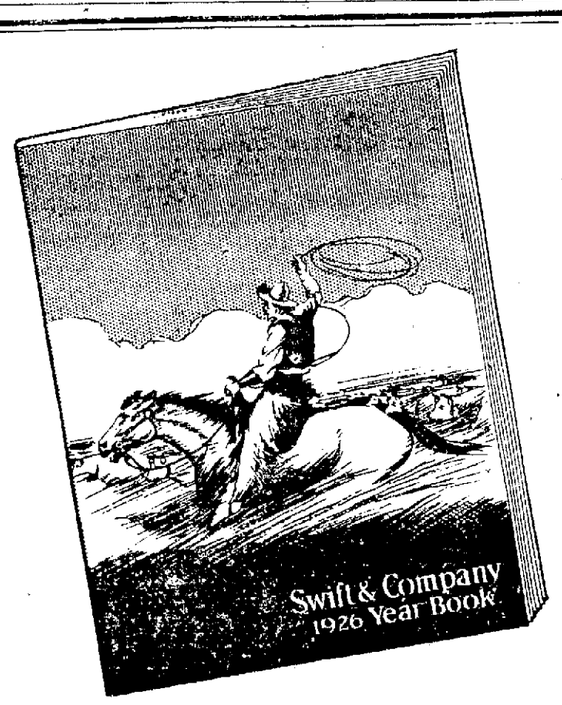

The building will be 60 feet wide and 100 feet long. In the basement there will be recreation rooms, coat rooms, chapel, kitchen and storage places. The first floor will have four class rooms, lobby, teachers' room, wardrobes, and storage rooms.

The foundations will be constructed to carry a second story later.

MOVE TOWARD CONSOLIDATION

Lincoln and University Place Councils Discuss Problems.

Zehrung Says Change Should Be Completed In Six Weeks.

The first real step toward annexation of University Place and Bethany to Lincoln was taken by the city council Monday night when the entire membership went to University Place and met the city officials of the suburb. The meeting was harmonious throughout.

The conference was at the instance of Mayor Theobald of the suburb who last week asked Mayor Zehrung and the Lincoln commissioners to meet with the suburbanites.

City Attorney Peterson and City Clerk Berg, and Clerk Gates and Attorney Gaylord of the two cities were also parties to the conference and aided the two bodies in coming to an understanding on the problems confronting consolidation.

At the close of the conference Mayor Zehrung told the University place representatives that Lincoln would move rapidly toward annexation and that he believed six weeks at the longest would see the consolidation completed and the suburb residents citizens of the capital city.

Mayor Theobald, an admitted anti-annexationist said he was happy that there would be no prolonged delay and pledged the whole-hearted loyalty of every person in University Place who had opposed the consolidation.

The Financial Situation.

A study of the financial condition of the suburb revealed that Lincoln will have to assume but $45,000 of bonded indebtedness represented in water districts and sewer refunding securities, along with $6,000 of water refuding bonds. This last item, however, will be liquidated May 1.

University Place has no paving intersection bonds but there are $650,004 in special assessment warrants against paving districts already completed. Other debts include approximately $10,000 in judgments as a result of contaminated water several years ago. Water and sewer extensions are cared for by a revolving fund through special assessments.

By pooling funds accumulated from special assessments there is a cash balance on hand, it was shown, of more than $19,000. The balance that can be used for general purposes was reported as in excess of $15,000.

Commissioner Schroeder asked about the water and lights and Commissioner Wright about water mains. The suburb has 250 street lamps in addition to 54 ornamental lights being installed on Warren avenue through the business section. These latter are installed by the property owners the same as in Lincoln.

There are 61,000 feet of water main varying from 4 to 10 inches in size. This, according to Commissioner Wright, makes the average size main larged than it is in Lincoln.

Caring for Streets.

Commissioner Duncan was asked to explain recently published statements about caring for suburb streets. He said that it is his purpose to give University Place the same careful attention that is now accorded the city proper. There will have to be many culverts placed and a great amount of work done on the drainage ditches at the side of the streets, he said. He added that this would require approximately $20,000 in added equipment and labor items in his budget the first year.

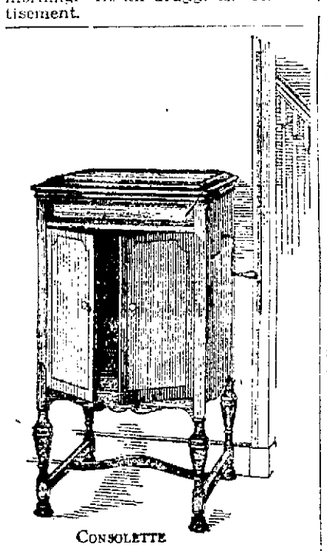

The fire fighting equipment was a surprise to Mr. Wright. He found one new combination pumper, chemical and hose wagon, and another without the pump, considerably older. He told the council that he expects to keep four men and a sergeant or captain in the suburb for police.

There will be but one difficulty to overcome, City Attorney Peterson said at the close of the conference, and that is whether the suburban property is listed on the tax books of the Lincoln tax commissioner almost immediately or whether it is listed on the county. He believed that the tax collections that will be made between now and October 1, will be sufficient to care for the affairs of the suburb until that time, when the Lincoln taxes will begin to come in. There will be more money available then, he said, if the suburban property is listed in Lincoln.

The suburb owns no park property but has the use of the college campus.

GUSTAFSON HEAD EGG ASSOCIATION

Lincoln Man Elected President of Cooperative Organization.

Plan to Begin Marketing When 600 Contracts Signed.

C. H. Gustafson of Lincoln, was elected president, A. A. Horn of College iew, vice president and A. R. Wallick of Roca, secretary-treasurer of the Lincoln Non-Stock Egg and Poultry association at the first meeting of the directors, held Monday night at the court house.

Constitution and by-laws prepared at the college of agriculture were gone over carefully and adopted without much change. The contracts that have already been circulated also were adopted with but a few corrections.

Only 600 instead of 1,000 of these contracts will have to be signed before the association starts operations, the directors decided. Several hundred have been signed already, according to County Agent J. F. Purbaugh. The farmers signing them promise to sell their poultry and eggs to the association alone, which will employ collective bargaining and grading to get better prices. Since the size of the average chicken flock around Lincoln is rather large, the directors believed that a fewer number of signers than originally planned will be needed.

Provision is made in the constitution for combining with other co-operative organzations, if that course seems best in the future. It is expected that one day the Lincoln association will be the only one of many co-operatives all over Nebraska.

All of the seven directors elected at a meeting last week were present.

Plans were discussed for holding meetings over this county and district to create interest in the association and get more contract signers. The meeting probably will start this week.

If He Lives.
Observe Japan.
Childhood's Mistake.
2,100,000 Volts.

By Arthur Brisbane

If Mussolini lives, a very big if, in view of numerous attacks on his life, he will be remembered in history, and not merely as another Rienzi In his plan to revive the greatness of the Roman empire, he does not merely dream like Byron that Greece might yet be free. Mussolini works at his idea, plans great Italian colonies in Africa, means to make the Mediterranean an Italian lake as it was once a Roman lake. And no old ideas about individual freedom or anything else stands in his way.

Lloyd George, usually cold, not easy to stampede, takes Mussolini seriously, as he should. He sees Mussolini sailing for Africa, accompanied by such an imposing flotilla of armed ships as never escorted any emperor in the ancient or modern world on a peaceable mission to part of his dominions.

If this were all swagger, says Lloyd George, the world would laugh, but there is an uneasy feeling abroad that it signifies business of a portentous kind.

"Italian imperialism," says Lloyd George, "has been aroused to a pitch of enthusiastic confidence in its destiny such as the peninsula has not experienced since the days of the Caesars."

This shows what one man of powerful will can do following a great war that weakens the wills of feebler men. It took the French revolution and the exhaustion that followed to pave the way for Napoleon. Mussolini follows 1914.

While the powerful Italian reconstructs the Roman empire with his own strength and personality, the Japanese carry on an imperial work that interests Europe and America.

China breaking up, means Japan building up. Where the Chinese lose ground, Japanese gain. Another Roman empire in Europe might be balanced by a greater empire in Asia.

In Japan, as in Italy, the fly in the imperial ointment is the radical and labor classes.

A charming lady of the west, getting her first divorce, says, "I am only rectifying a mistake of my childhood."

Young people that plan marriage in a hurry should remember that saying. Thousands of marriages are "mistakes of childhood" doomed to failure. And they are made so far as the marriage engagement is concerned, with less thought than the bride subsequently gives to selecting a wedding dress.

The Southern Pacific is transporting from the Massachusetts General Electric factory to Prof. Ryan's laboratory at Stanford university, an engine with a capacity of 2,100,000 volts. It will make possible experiments never made heretofore even by Steinmetz, with a machine of higher voltage electricity than the world has ever known.

Everywhere science keeps marching ahead while fundamentalism continues to discuss good old Jonah and the whale. That's why science keeps in the lead.

What goes on in science is more important than anything that ever happened in the whale's belly, and really religious people realize that. They concentrate attention on the greatest of miracles, which is the creation of the brain of man.

Our government hopes that Britain will prevent sending whiskey to America. We cannot keep it out, but the British, who know how to enforce laws, could prevent it being sent to the United States. If we arrange for no British whiskey shipments we shall not stop bootlegging, preserve our bootleg market for home moonshiners and cause Americans to drink, not less alcohol, but worse alcohol.

The Junker company manufactures airplanes carrying high-power guns and completely protected by armor plate. Our energetic South American neighbor, Chile, has ordered four of them. Our navy thinks, presumably, that it would sound too combative to order such machines.

HEENAN MAY REJOIN WIFE

Father of "Peaches" Relieved Of Care Of Daughter.

CHICAGO, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Marriage of Frances "Peaches" Heenan to Edward W. Browning, New York millionaire, may speed the reunion of W. B. Heenan, the girl's father, and his second wife, Mrs. Hattie Heenan, Chicago.

With the burden of keeping a fatherly eye on his daughter lifted from his shoulders, Heenan is now planning to return to Chicago as soon as his business in New York will permit, his second wife has learned. Although separated many months, their love has not cooled, she said.

Three years ago Heenan learned that his first wife needed assistance in taking care of "Peaches" in New York. He and his second wife agreed it was his duty to go to New York. He has written regularly to his wife left behind, she said, and now that the girl is married he is free to return home.

Heenan was divorced from his first wife, Frances' mother, ten years ago in Columbus, O., according to his second wife. Two years later he met and married his present wife, widow of D. A. Bailey of Louisville, Ky.

Employed as a saleswoman in a store here, Mrs. Heenan has been maintaining herself and her own daughter.

Alien Property Claims Measure At End of Road

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—With the treasury plan for immediate settlement of German-American war claims apparently at the end of its road in congress for this season, Secretary Mellon Monday again advocated it as "the only practical solution of these difficulties."

Mr. Mellon added, however, that he was quite "open minded" as to a means of settlement and called upon house opponents of the plan to propose amore practical one rather than advance "destructive criticism."

At the same time, Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat of the ways and means committee, which has the bill under consideration and who has described it as a "stupendous steal," predicted it would not be taken up again by the committee. Acting Chairman Hawley added that other legislation was to be considered at the next meeting of the committee.

Radio Club Wants City to Regulate Vibratory Charger

Recommendation will be made to the city council by the Lincoln Radio club that an ordinance be enacted regulating "vibratory chargers" which interfere with radio reception it was voted at a meeting of the club held Monday evening.

Reports made by two committees containing the recommendation, were adopted. It is also urged that a nuisance clause be attached to the city act, in the event of repreated offenses. The club will suggest that the chargers shall not operate between 12 o'clock noon and 12 o'clock midnight.

Dale P. Stough, president of the club, outlined the "air piracy" case decision, which, he said, gives the federal government practically no control at present. This will hasten regulatory legislation, he pointed out, and gave a resume of new bills which have been introduced in congress affecting radio.

Neal Jones, radio editor of the Omaha News, spoke on early experience in broadcasting, and on problems of the broadcasting station.

Hagey Rea discussed various technical phases of radio.

A newly formed club at Havelock was invited to attend the next meeting, which will be held May 5. About 100 were present.

Chief Justice Talks On Nebraska Courts

Chief Justice A. M. Morrisey spoke Monday evening before the Lincoln Wholesale Credit Men's association on "The Courts of Nebraska."

He pointed out the functions of each court, municipal, county, district and supreme, and showed how the field of the state courts are entirely separate from that of the federal. The state courts deal with contracts between ordinary citizens, he said, as well as enforce the laws made by the Nebraska state legislature, while the federal courts have jurisdiction of certain contracts controversies between citizens of different states, and enforce the acts of congress.

J. S. Tupper, chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign for the national credit protection fund, announced that fifty-three firms had subscribed $3,105 of the $5,000 quota. Thirteen firms are yet to be solicited. The campaign closes April 25.

The election of the organization will be held at the next meeting, which will be May 17. J. C. Bishop presided at the meeting Monday night, which was held at the Lincoln hotel.

Audubon Society Gives Program On Wild Bird Habits

(Special to The Star)

Miss Atlanta Cole, Zoology teacher and organizer of the club here, introduced the speakers, Charles G. Miss Callaway spoke on the subject of bird banding, which she has been following since 1924 at her farm home west of Fairbury. Bird banding requires a government permit and provides a splendid opportunity for studying the birds at close hand from year to year.

The Fairbury orchestra furnished music. Following the program, the audience took advantage of the invitation to visit the interesting nature study exhibits on the third floor of the building where townsmen have made several contributions to the school collection, for the occasion.

District President At Osceola Stresses Importance Of Work.

OSCEOLA, Neb., April 20.—(AP)—The fourth district convention of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs opened here today with delegates in attendance from eleven central Nebraska counties representing 52 women's clubs.

The opening day's program was featured by a luncheon attended by state and district officers and addresses before the general session by Mrs. Frank E. Tincher of Fairbury, district president; Mrs. Will E. Miner of Oakland, state president; Mrs. Albert Hedbloom of Stromsburg and Mrs. Margaret Leaming of Bradshaw, vice president.

Mrs. Tincher declared that county organization had become her hobby. She said the federation in Nebraska had outgrown the idea of striving for club members alone and is now devoting its efforts toward increased activity on the part of the present membership.

"The state federation," she said, "is composed largely of women of the rural communities with six-sevenths of the membership women from the small towns and neighboring communities. County organization by combing the various clubs of the county organization by combining the various clubs of the counties into co-operative groups is expected to reach out until in every town there is a club of women manded together for civic, educational and social purposes.

"All federated clubs in each organization. However, there are unfederated clubs in nearly every county, which we should strive to win for the county federation plan."

Mrs. Tincher stressed the importance of co-operation between the various clubs of the state and urged that each club member strive toward renewed activity.

An address by Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast of Nebraska Wesleyan university and presentation of one-act plays entered in the district contest are including in the evening program.

Water Turned On An Hour Too Late To Avert Damage

DAWSON, Neb., April 20.—(AP)—Dawson victim of a severe fire several months ago when lack of water made bucket brigades futile, had long planned on Monday's civic celebration, marking the completion of its new $20,000 water works. As the first spigot spouted water the celebration was to get under way. But chagrin stalked among the celebrants.

Just an hour before time for the water to course through the mains, the cry of fire rang through the town. The home of M. V. Riley was in flames. Grabbing the obsolete bucket equipment, merchants and professional men hastened to Mr. Riley's home and threw water on the fire. Damage was limited to about $1,000.

Then they all went back and turned on the water. Now Dawson is prepared.

BOARD WILL NOT HIRE A MANAGER

Body In Charge Of Omaha Schools Turns Down Proposal.

OMAHA, Neb., April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)— Unexpected decision of two members against the plan resulted last night in the Omaha school board voting down a proposition to hire a business manager to run school affairs.

The vote was 6 to 5. The two had pledged support of the project.

The vote culminated a fight extending over several weeks, which became heated when the question first was broached. Opponents had even sought a district court injunction against its adoption, but this move was lost.

The Jacob Wachob company of Omaha, bidding par with accrued interest of $6,190, was the successful bidder for one million dollars of school bonds. The bonds were the last batch of a $2,500,000 issue. Six weeks ago bids on the final block were rejected and last night's successful bid was $10,090 higher than the best offered then.

There is a Difference in Awnings

ANY old awnings may be better than no awnings at all, when the glaring sun tries to make your home an oven. But they are not very much better if they hurt your eyes and only last a season.

There is a great difference in awnings in this respect of appearance—and a great difference in durability. Surely your home deserves awnings that beautify as well as protect, and continue to do both in spite of weather.

Kleen-Heet

There are Two Types of Oil Burners

Industrial—and Household!

The industrial burner is designed for continuous operation. It burns low-grade oils—with the aid of special pre-heating apparatus—under the care of a trained engineer.

The household burner is designed to be efficient in intermittent operation, as heat is needed. Automatically—without attention—it must provide clean, odorless, quiet, safe, even, economic heat.

The Winslow Boiler and Engineering Company makes both. Its superiority in both fields is accepted.

Kleen-Heet—considered by engineers the most perfect of all household oil burners—is not an adaptation of the industrial burner. It is engineered specifically to do one job—and one only—to heat homes to perfection! And it does! Its instant efficiency multiplies the many advantages of oil over other forms of heating.

This marked engineering superiority of Kleen-Heet is reflected in a six-year record of unfailing performance.

Vaughn of Nebraska City was on the witness stand throughout the morning testifying regarding the values of land in Otoe county. The railroads are attempting to show that the land valuations is higher than it is claimed by the state to be. The testimony this morning showed a difference of $50 an acre between the estimate placed on the land in the Vincent Straub farm by the state and that placed by the appraisers for the railroad. Vaughn said that the land had been appraised at $175 an acre while the state's witnesses placed the value at $125 an acre. Land values in about twelve counties will be taken up by the railroads in their rebuttal at this hearing. Next week the hearing will be continued in Omaha.

ASK REDUCTION ON TAX VALUE

Receiver For Road Wants Assessment at $1,000 a Mile.

Equipment Removed and Only Real Estate Remains.

Because of the fact that the Kansas City & Northwestern railroad line in Nebraska and Kansas has been finally abandoned and its rails and ties are being sold for junk, the receiver of the road has asked that its tax assessment in this state be reduced this year to a valuation of $1,000 per mile for the right of way. As nothing will remain but the strip of land and the surviving vestige of fences enclosing it, the receiver's attorney suggests in a letter to State Tax Commissioner Williams that no tax should be levied on anything but the bare acreage.

The right of way runs through Pawnee and Gage counties, 20.65 miles in length, and contains approximately 12½ acres of ground space to the mile. At $1,000 per mile, this would be a valuation of $80 an acre. The average assessment on farm lands in Pawnee county is $70 an acre and in Gage $80.

In all probability, therefore, the state board of equalization will grant the request of the K. C. & N. W. receiver. The road has not been in operation since 1919, but was assessed on the old basis of $12,000 a mile up to last year, when it was cut to $3,000 per mile. An unsuccessful effort was made in 1925 to obtain a loan from the federal government so that the running of trains could be resumed. When this fell through, it was decided to junk the property.

There were depots and other abandoned station property at Bookwalter, Armour, Tate and Virginia, the latter place being the Nebraska terminus of the road; but these have either been sold for moving off the right of way or will be disposed of as part of the real estate when it is sold.

The receiver hopes to sell the land in the rural right of way to owners of adjacent farms, unless Pawnee and Gage counties desire to purchase it for use as a highway. Similar disposition is to be made of the land and buildings in Kansas.

The first meeting of the state board to consider railroads and private car line assessments will take place on May 3, the date fixed below. Some of the car line companies may be heard at that time on their customary request for lower valuations, but the railroads will probably not make their presentations until later. The board will adjourn from time to time until the carriers have all had a chance to put in their showings.

Many Present At Rossiter Funeral

(Special to The Star.)

DE WITT, Neb. April 20.—Funeral services were held at the home here Monday for Edgar Rossiter, prominent citizen. It was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in De Witt. Rossiter dropped dead in his home Saturday afternoon as he was preparing to go down town. He had served as councilman and mayor of the town several terms and also as state representative from his home district last term and was a candidate for representative at the coming term. The funeral ceremony was in charge of Rev. W. A. Mulligan, of the Beatrice Episcopal church. All four of the children of the deceased reached home for the funeral. A sister and brother were also present, the only close relative failing to reach De Witt in time was a brother, who lived in Kelso, Wash.

Boys Picked Up—Officer Nichols brought two boys, supposedly runaways, to the police station Tuesday. Alvin Burbank, 12, of Garrison, Neb., was taken home by his father. Andrew Franks, 17, stated that he lived in Illinois, but refused to reveal the address of his parents. He is being held.

Tuan Chi Jui Flees From Teintsin, His Regime At An End

PEKING, April 20.—(AP)—Tuan Chi Jui, latest deposed president of China departed from Tientsin early today, apparently discouraged by eviction from the city by pressure of the Fengtien authorities of Gen. Tang Chi Tao, who with his troops, called the Ninth division, were the deposed president's last reliance.

The ecutive's flight evidently puts an end of his regime, since the cabinet of his appointing shows no inclination to function. The Yen bloc resignation of the cabinet last evening resulted in the announcement that Premier Chia Ten-Yao had been granted leave of absence, but there was no word as to the acceptance of the resignation of the other ministers.

The only authority, therefore, outside the military, whose chiefs have not yet entered the capital, is vested in a committee of safety, hurriedly assembled on invitation of the outgoing Kuominchun (national army) commander.

SAY FRENCH DEBT AGREEMENT NEAR

Intimated In Paris Details Awaiting Italian Settlement.

PARIS, April 20.—(By the Associated Press)—It is intimated in government circles that the principle of an agreement for funding France's war debt to the United States already have been agreed upon and that as soon as the United States senate has concluded discussion of the Italian debt question the few remaining details will be rapidly disposed of.

Official circles allow the impression that a settlement will be reached within a few days. Finance Minister Peret is endeavoring to bring the negotiations with the Washington government to a speedy conclusion. It is reported to be his intention to go to London and discuss the ritish war debt as soon as the decks have been cleared at Washington.

M. Peret told American hotel men last night that it is the intention of France to pay her creditors all that she can in justice be asked to pay, and when once an arrangement for payment is made with her creditors she will bend all her efforts loyally to carry out her undertaking.

M. Peret said he counted on the memory of old comradeships in the war and on the respect which the financial effort France was making must inspire, to obtain from the United States and Great Britain funding conditions compatible with the country's financial situation.

Condit May Buy 'Steel Gloves' to Handle Criminals

A pair of steel gloves may be added to the equipment of the state law enforcement department to be used in handling desperate criminals. The gloves will not be worn by the officers but by the prisoner. They are a new kind of break-proof handcuffs.

A representative of the company which has placed them on the market demonstrated the handcuff-gloves to State Sheriff Condit on Tuesday morning. Both hands of the prisoner may be encased in the gloves and the lock is snapped shut. A chain joins the two gloves together in the same manner that ordinary hand-cuffs are joined. The tips of the fingers are left open to allow the circulation of air through them.

The purpose of the steel gloves is to prevent the prisoner from working on the lock and possibly picking it open, as is quite often done with the ordinary cuff.

Ex-Lincolnite Is Ag College Dean

Lincoln friends of George C. White, who held a position is professor of dairy husbandry at the University of Nebraska agricultural college in 1912-13, have learned of his recent appointment as dean of the Connecticut agricultural college at Storrs, in that state, where he has been for some years past in another capacity. A picture and sketch of him were published by the Breeders' Gazette, Chicago, in its April 15 issue.

Mr. White came here from the University of Missouri, where he was graduated with both bachelor and master degrees. One of his achievements at the Connecticut institution was conducting a successful campaign to raise $300,000 for a community house and church.

A HINT TO THE BOBBED GIRL

When hair is short and worn in the modern trims which attract so much attention, it is more than ever imperative that the hair itself should be well groomed. With the right shampoo you can stimulate growth and preserve all the natural beauty of the hair.

A very wonderful shampoo is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of Canthrox in a cup of hot water. It not only removes dandruff, dirt and excess oil from the scalp but it makes the hair marvelously fluffy, lustrous and apparently more abundant. You will be happy over the quick way it dries and the ease with which you can arrange it.

The cost of Canthrox is very low—for three cents you can have a thoroughly satisfactory shampoo. All good druggists keep this preparation.—Advertisement.

SCHOOLS PRINT NEW BULLETIN

Promote Health of Child Before Entering School In Fall.

Immediate Progress On Hawthorne Building In Prospect.

Superintendent Lefler brought before the school board two new bulletins at the meeting Tuesday morning, one on curriculum and building needs at the high school with the plans of the proposed addition which the board hopes to get under way this spring; the other a bulletin entitled "When I Start to School," issued under the direction of Harvey L Long, director of physical education

This bulletin is printed in such a manner as to make a record, if filled in by the child's parents, of the exact state of health of every five year old youngster entering for the first time the Lincoln public schools. It is put out in such an attractive manner as to urge the child through his summer vacation to make himself perfectly fit for school in the fall.

For the first time in the annals of the board so few grievances were brought before that body it was able to adjourn three minutes before eleven.

Owing to the controversy among the members of the board over the awarding of the last contract for heat regulating system, in the future this contract will be let under separate bid and not as an alternate to the general heating contract This will probably simplify the argument between the members of the board, the board's foreman of operation, A. N. Sorenson, and the Johnson and Powers heat regulating companies.

The board referred to the attorney the case of Frank Fulwider. custodian at Everett school, who claims that while pushing a lawnower on the school grounds he struck a stone causing the handle on the mower to strike him in such a way as to result in an injury.

Dr. Bailey's recommendation that $1,000 insurance be placed on the property belonging to the board just southeast of the high school boiler house was approved. The insurance will be taken with the H. R Ball company which formerly held it.

A letter of appreciation from Mrs. A G. Barber was read thanking members of the board for the use of one of the McKinley rooms for Parent-Teacher association meetings this year and for the use of the high school auditorium for the P. T. A. pageant.

The words "School District" will be taken off of the car driven by the truant officer. She finds that the words hinder her a great deal in trying to locate youngsters who seemingly can find something more pleasant to do than attend school regularly.

To Tear Down Old Clinton.

W. R. Shanklin was awarded the contract for tearing down the old Clinton school. Mr. Shanklin agrees to sell the old brick and deliver them to Charles Olson at the Irving junior high school for $10 50 per thousand and the lumber at $21 per thousand.

The city has awarded the contract for the sewer going out to the Hawthorne school to George L Vlasnik. This means that immediate progress may be made on plans for the building of the new school Up to this time there has been no water near the site. W. C Frampton, chairman of the sanitary district, has notified the secretary of the board that the district will probably be able to pay back in July to the school board the money which was loaned the sanitary district for the building of the sewer which went out to Lakeview, making possible the erection of the present new Lakeview school.

The deed to lot 8 block 8 of Woodcrest was approved by the board and will be made over to Frank A. Stout who has purchased the lot from the board.

The board authorized sending Secretary Ludlam to the national convention of the association of public school business officials which will be held in Toronto, May 18-21.

The following recommendations were submitted by Mr. Lefler and approved by the board:

Velma Warren, regular teacher, first year, $1,400; Lucille Fisher, regular teacher, first year, $1,200; Helen Spellman, kindergarten assistant, first year, $900; Mrs. Clora K. Finsh, garden supervisor, (1926), $225.

Say Missing Youth Failed In Studies

Failure in his studies is believed to be the reason for the disappearance of Thomas McCampbell, colored, university student, who has not been seen since April 14. Police were notified of the young man's disappearance Monday afternoon. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lee McCampbell of Kansas City, and was living with G C. Walker, 1929 U street, while attending school here.

McCampbell told a friend he was going to Omaha and Des Moines, and asked him to go along. He carried few extra clothes.

Claim Officer's Derby Hindrance To Liquor Raiders

An "iron hat" is a "dead giveaway" when officers make raids on suspicious houses, federal and state officers told City Detective Peter Meyer Monday afternoon.

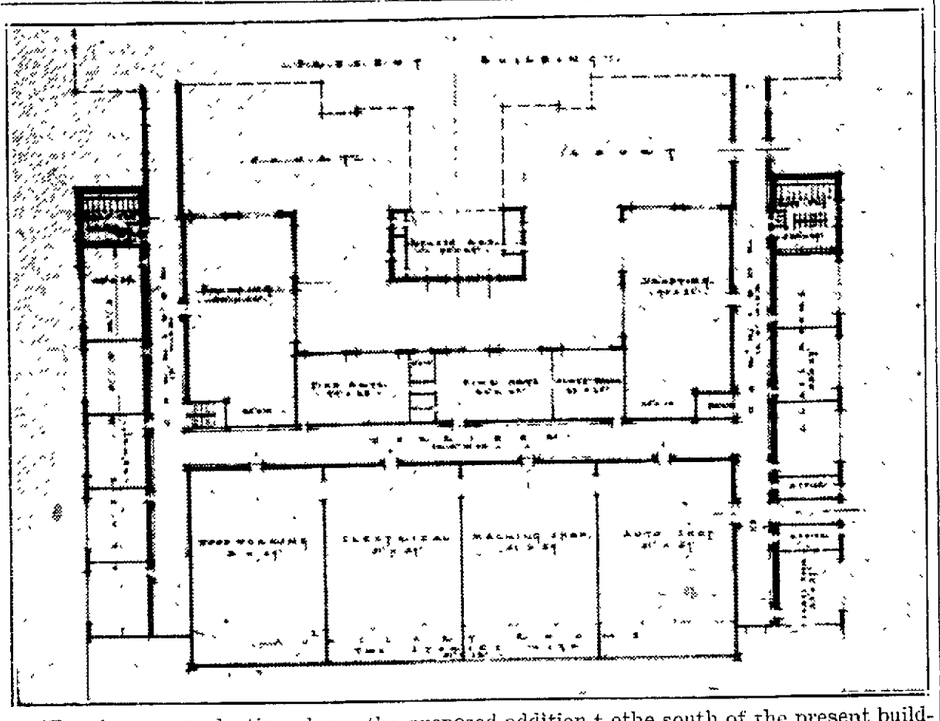

Meyer, who has worn a derby hat for several years, was relieved of the headpiece Monday when he accompanied Deputy State Sheriff Otto Dudschus and Federal Agent Karl Schmitt on an "inspection tour."

The liquor agents bought Meyer a new hat, one of inconspicuous brand, and painted his derby a dull red to make sure he does not use it again

BEGIN WHITTEMORE TRIAL.

BUALO, N. Y. April 20.—(AP)—With two-thirds of the jury already selected and indications that the remaining four jurors would be obtained today, the prosecution and defense last night made final plans for presenting their evidence at the trial of Richard Reis Whittemore, New York bandit chieftain, for murder. The jury will determine whether Whittemore and his gang participated in the $93,000 holdup of the bank of Buffalo armored car last October when two messengers were slain.

Proposed Addition to Lincoln High School

The above reproduction shows the proposed addition t othe south of the present building. The main building and addition are connected by an extension of the present corridors which become continuous with the corridors of the addition.

The plans provide for new quarters for fine arts, mechanical drawing and printing, for woodworking, electrical, machine and auto shops and for ten ordinary classrooms. It will be possible to extend the building still further to the south in the future and to increase to three stories the height of that part devoted to regular classrooms.

Davis and Wilson, the architects will submit the complete plans by about May 1 to the board. The estimated cost of the addition will be in the neighborhood of $200,000. The board hopes to start work upon the building this spring and have it completed for the opening of the second semester next February.

Charge Campbell With Assault To Do Bodily Harm

Charley Campbell, 66, colored, who has admitted firing a shotgun which severely injured Lillian Pappas, colored, Thursday, will face a charge of assault with intent to do bodily harm, it was said at the county attorney's office Tuesday noon.

The complaint has been drawn up and is ready to file It was not indicated when Campbell would be arraigned Lillian Pappas is still at St Elizabeth's hospital, and is reported to be recovering from the wounds in her leg. Both of the bones of one leg were fractured, but doctors believe the member will not have to be amputated

Boy, 16, Cannot Drive Until the Fourth of July

Graydon Scott, 16, cannot drive a car until July 4, according to an order of Municipal Judge E B. Chappell made Tuesday morning when the young man appeared on charges of passing a street car on the left-hand side and making a "U" turn on O street.

Scott was compelled to call his mother to tell her of his arrest. He had kept it a secret, he told Judge Chappell, and the court ordered him to tell his mother. Then Judge Chappell imposed the penalty of the order not to drive

The complaint of making a "U" turn was dismissed when it was learned that the signal lights were turned off when Scott made the turn.

The defendant was driving his car west at Tenth and O streets, according to Officer Hund, when he passed a street car on the wrong side Then, instead of turning to the right to go north on Tenth street, the young driver made a circle to the left, finally driving north

Wife Cause of Mate's Arrest; He Retaliates

Taken into custody on the complaint of his wife charging improper relations with a 16-year old daughter, R C. Hubbard of Havelock Monday evening caused the arrest of Mrs. Hubbard by informing police of an alleged theft which he says his wife perpetrated in July, 1925

Hubbard is held at the Havelock jail and Mrs Hubbard is at the Lincoln city jail.

Complaints have not yet been drawn up, according to Chief of Police Huston of Havelock, but they would be filed against Hubbard, he said Both the prisoner and his daughter deny the allegations made by Mrs. Hubbard

Mrs Hubbard just returned from Omaha where she had been for sometime while her husband remained in Havelock. Eight children are now living, and four are dead.

ACCEPT BIDS ON STEEL BRIDGES

County to Build Four Structures Near Agnew and Denton.

County commissioners met Tuesday morning and accepted bids by the Westover company on four steel bridges, conditional to a time clause. The Westover bids were for $1063, $518, $627 and $1069 on the respective bridges, all in the vicinity of Agnew and Denton.

Three other bids were submitted, one of which was rejected on the grounds of not being in proper form and being too complicated.

A long petition for graveling on a road a mile west and parallel to the South Fourteenth street highway was accepted and placed on file without comment.

The question of collecting old taxes on part of the property on which the Terminal building now rests was brought up in a letter from the Terminal Building association's attorneys, and turned over to the county attorney for an opinion. The ground has been subdivided a couple of times since the original assessments and so two abstracts of title were made without discovering the the tax changes. They were for the years 1874, 1878 and 1880 and total $167.05 The commissioners are asked to accept a payment of face value, without interest, as the city has done in similar cases, on the grounds that the tax is impossible of collection because of indefinite assesment. Deputy County Attorney Farley Young doubted whether the commissioners can take such action.

The taxes were discovered by an abstractor looking over the Terminal building title for an insurance company it was stated

DES MOINES, Ia.—(AP)—Suspicion that a man who visited him ostensibly to court his sister-in-law was primarily interested in his wife, prompted Paul Chirottino, 45-year-old miner, to shoot to death his wife, Mary, and her sister, Isabelle Plemone, Monday. He then took his own life. The motive was disclosed by a note addressed to a neighbor.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(AP)—The bronchoscope was used successfully at a hospital here Monday to remove a tack from the lung of Tony Earl, 1 year old, of Livingstone, Mont. The child swallowed the tack last Thursday at the home of its parents. An X-ray showed the location of the metal and he was brought to Minneapolis after an operation was found necessary to save the infant's life Last night the child was reported recovered.

"I HEAR the men downtown say when you pass, 'There goes Carrie.'"

"And do they laugh when they say it?" She bent lower over her needle.

"Yessum, they do. Why do they do that, Miss Carrie?"

A thirsty little boy came into her yard for a drink of water—and so the strange friendship began. She cared for the cigar-box which held his treasures, for the starving black kitten he had found and was not allowed to have at home.

And then, because of the mother-love which lies in the heart of every woman, saint or sinner, she gave up the most beautiful thing that had ever come into her life—gave it up with a heroic gaiety, gave it up somehow bravely as with banners blowing.

ORGANIZING AGAINST SOVIETISM.

Urgent demands are being made by Russian exiles in a great many countries for the Grand Duke Nicholas, former generalissimo of the Russian armies during the first three years of the World war, and closest surviving relative of the late czar, to become their leader in a new movement for the overthrow of the soviet regime at Moscow.

An association has been formed with this purpose in view, seeking to enlist support of all elements and groups among the people who have been forced to leave that country. It held a meeting at Paris recently, with 500 delegates present. The consensus of opinion was that Grand Duke Nicholas, because of his commanding personality, his great ability, and his common sense, is the only man in sight around whom all emigres can rally in the task of liberating Russia from her bolshevik oppressors and repatriating the exiled part of her population.

Of course, no military expedition against Moscow can be organized on the continent of Europe at this time, nor is it being attempted. What the banished Russians have in mind is a campaign of propaganda from the outside which will undermine the soviet system and eventually disrupt it. At the proper time, a revolution may be started on Russian soil, which will be assisted by the association in every way possible. For the present, the plans contemplate organizing the scattered hosts of that nationality to work unitedly for the development of strong public opinion in their own country and generally throughout the world, favorable to ending "the dictatorship of the proletariat."

Grand Duke Nicholas has not yet consented to take up the leadership of this cause, but those active in the movement hope he will do so. He is not looked upon as a candidate for the throne from which his weak relative was deposed, having persistently refused heretofore to assume the role of pretender. He has the good sense to know that any attempt to restore the institution of czarism as it existed before the World war would be foredoomed to failure. Indeed, Nicholas himself had as much reason as anyone to complain of conditions as they were in the old days, since it was the weakness of his unfortunate ruling namesake and the inefficiency of the bureaucracy that caused the defeat of Russia's military forces in the war and led to the downfall of the government and the assassination of the royal family.

Simply because he is universally considered the ablest man to achieve the object in view, his fellow countrymen representing all shades of political opinion have united in asking the grand duke to become their captain. Republicans and even socialists are among these. A majority of those attending the Paris congress is said to be opposed to the re-establishment of a monarchy in any form; nevertheless, the sentiment for Nicholas as the leader was virtually unanimous.

The undertaking appears to be on a big enough scale to constitute more than a passing threat to the governing junta at Moscow. If its spokesmen can convince the agricultural population of Russia that there is no intention of taking from them the lands they have acquired since the 1917 revolution, the farmers will probably be ready to join the movement when the time comes. As the bulk of the people are still engaged in farming, the rural elements will eventually constitute the deciding factor as between the bolshevik and their antagonists.

TO COMPLETE CANADIAN ROAD.

The Canadian government has announced its intention of pushing to completion the Hudson Bay railroad, abandoned several years ago, notwithstanding the fact that claims have been made that the dominion is already overbuilt to a considerable extent in the railroad line. At the time the road was abandoned the taxpayers were contributing large sums to make up deficits and they strongly objected to putting any more money into roads unless the same were considered necessary.

The wheat growers of the northwest provinces consider the Hudson Bay line necessary, however, and are insisting that it be put through. They had dreamed of it for twenty-five years before it was finally begun in 1910 and they now want that dream to come true. It will connect their wheat fields with tidewater at Port Nelson, the mouth of the Nelson river. This port is about the same distance from Liverpool that Montreal is, but it is 1,000 miles nearer the source of the wheat. It is estimated that the saving on each bushel of grain will be from three to eight cents and the expectation is that from fifty million to one hundred million bushels of wheat will be shipped each season. The saving through the completion of this road can be readily seen.

The road runs from The Pas, in northwestern Manitoba, to Port Nelson, a distance of 424 miles. When work was abandoned grading had been finished for the entire distance and steel had been laid for 300 miles. The original estimate for the entire cost of the line, with the terminals at Port Nelson, was $25,000,000, of which $21,000,000 had already been expended.

At the time of abandonment it was claimed that the navigation season in Hudson bay and the strait was too short to be of any value, but those who are chiefly interested in the project, including the business interests of Winnipeg, say that it is of at least four months duration and that it can be greatly lengthened with proper aids to navigation.

Since construction was begun valuable mineral deposits have been discovered along the line and it is claimed that these alone, if developed, will make the road a profitable one. At any rate the northwestern farmers want it for their wheat and it now seems that their demands are to be complied with.

BILLIONS IN CONSTRUCTION.

A year ago one of Lincoln's most prominent business men expressed the belief that a period of reaction and depression was to be feared because, in his opinion, the country had been overbuilt. That opinion, however, does not appear to be shared by very many people, for the indications now are that the current year will witness the greatest building activity of any twelve months since the war.

Figures that have just been compiled show that more building contracts were let during March than for the same month a year ago and the same istrue for the first quarter of the year. The total construction commitments made during the first quarter of the year amounted to $1,444,937,700, which is an increase of 30 per cent over the first three months of last year. Over a billion dollars of contemplated construction was reported last month, which is the largest amount for any one month on record. The exact figure is 20 per cent over the report for February and 30 per cent over March, 1925.

In the thirty-seven states east of the Rocky mountains March showed a gain of 22 per cent in building as compared with the same month last year, the total for the month being $597,879,300. It is important to note that 44 per cent of this construction was of residential buildings, the cost of these being $262,643,500; commercial buildings cost $108,812,400, or 18 per cent; public works and utilities cost $100,603,300, or 17 per cent; industrial buildings cost $48,677,200 or 8 per cent, and educational buildings $29,079,700, or 5 per cent.

This year's program, as thus far outlined, is bigger and more extensive in every respect than was that of last year, but probably the most significant thing in connection with it is the fact that almost half of the construction in progress and in prospect is of residential buildings. To be sure, great commercial structures are going up in all of the cities, with few exceptions, but the people are building places in which to live. At the end of the war housing facilities were far behind the demand and there was some delay in starting operations on account of the cost, which it was expected would decline. It has become apparent, however, that nothing of this kind is to occur, so the work is now being pushed with all possible speed. There is reason to believe that this will be one of the biggest building years in the history of the country.

DIPHTHERIA'S GREAT COST.

Residents of midwestern towns and cities, which are comparatively free from slums and are subjected to rigid health inspections as well as being for the most part populated by intelligent and educated people, can scarcely realize that diphtheria alone should have cost the people of New York $1,120,000 last year, yet a statement to this effect has just been made by Dr. Shirley W. Wynn, director of the bureau of hospitals of the city health department.

Dr. Wynn says that there were 11,000 cases of the disease in that city last year and that the deaths numbered 700. He assumes that the duration of the disease is two weeks on an average, though it is frequently longer. The average cost of medical care, nursing, medicines and health department supervision is $5 per day, so each case cost $70 or a total of $770,000. Then he estimates that each life is worth $500 and 700 deaths would make an additional bill of $350,000. These added together give a total of $1,120,000.

This great sum, the doctor says, does not take into account the suffering of the patients and the anxiety and sorrow of their families, nor does it include any charge for the permanent damage that is done in many cases that recover, which, in after years is a serious handicap to usefulness. For these reasons an active campaign is being carried on against diphtheria, which it is hoped to overcome. Dr. S. Josephine Baker asserts in connection with the statement of Dr. Wynn, that all of the children of the state can be protected from the disease by the use of toxin-antitoxin, and this is a generally admitted fact.

Life in a great city may have some advantages, but they are not appreciated to any great extent by we provincials of the middle west. In this section of the country diphtheria is rarely heard of in this latter age and few indeed are the deaths from the malady. Health rules are laid down and they are adhered to, with the result that children are protected and their lives insured. It is the older people who refuse to abide by the laws of health and it is among these that the death rate mounts. Not, however, to the level attained in the congested east.

More Truth Than Poetry.

AN IMPERTINENT PENITENT.

If I could undo all I've done,
Unsay the words that made you weep,
And, where our loving was begun,
Make pledges I'd be sure to keep.
I wonder if you could be won
Back to my arms, your trusting deep?

If I could come with proof that we
Had made a pitiful mistake,
And that I had not meant to be
The one to cause your heart to break,
I wonder if you'd fly to me,
Your deadened love once more awake?

Do you recall the year or two
When all our days were full of bliss?
Our moments of regret were few
When little matters went amiss;
No heaven, I thought, and so did you,
Could be more wonderful than this.

Our stay in Paradise was brief,
Fate came to clip the wings we wore:
I saw your laughter turn to grief,
What I had claimed was mine no more;
You cast away a fond belief
That nothing ever could restore.

Perhaps the fault was mine alone,
Appearance made it clearly so;
The faith you had was quickly flown,
Our house of cards was lying low;
The happiness that we had known
Was false, it seems, and quick to go.

If I could whiten what is black
Would happiness be in your glance,
And would you hasten gladly back
To furbish up our wrecked romance?
Well, let it pass, for I should lack
The wish to take another chance.

Homely Philosophy.

WHAT IS YOUR PERSONAL GRIEVANCE COSTING YOU?

Aren't you mighty small when you turn down some man for membership in your lodge on account of a personal grievance?

The rules of your order state that a black ball against a man is to be cast for some other reason than a personal grudge.

When you joined the order you said you would be governed by its rules.

Now when you have a chance to get even with a man, for reasons of your own, you do all you can to keep him out of an order with which he wishes affiliation. Then you would try to make believe that you are not prejudiced.

The ill-feeling you have for this man may cover a period of years.

But what have you gained through harboring it? It has robbed you of many hours which you might have enjoyed. Thoughts of vengeance have brought you misery and turbulence of spirit.

You are really punishing yourself more than the one to whom you are unfriendly.

You may get a certain satisfaction out of the thought that you kept him out of your lodge, but you did not get wholesome pleasure out of it.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

SOMETHING WITH NUTS IN IT.

This article is really a continuation of the article of yesterday, "Have Something Better Than Meat Today," for I want to make some explanations about it and give you another dish that you can use instead of meat.

"What shall we call it?" I asked my secretary.

And Ray said: "I dunno, call it something with nuts in it."

So that's what I've done. I think its a good title, for it certainly will attract those who are very fond of nuts, as I am. You'll find everyone who is inclined to overweight is fond of nuts; they're so rich and fattening.

Did you know they are fattening? They are, for on account of their high content of fat (they contain from 65 to 85 per cent fat,) it takes only about one-half ounce of the nut meats to make 100 calories. That would be 10 to 12 double peanuts, 10 almonds, 4 big walnuts, 2 Brazil nuts. If those who are trying to gain will add two ounces of nut meats a day to their diet they will be getting 400 calories extra. I have one friend who gained her wanted pounds simply by taking a handful of them after luncheon and dinner.

The protein of nuts is of a very high grade. In experimental animal feedings, it has been found that the protein of almonds and peanuts is complete; that is, it contains all of the elements for growth and repair (and it is probable that further experiment will show that the other nuts contain complete protein, too. They must have; at any rate we know that man's nearest animal relatives, the apes, maintain their growth and repair on nuts as their protein.)

Its highly important for us to have a large share of our protein come from the complete type. Complete proteins are also found in milk, eggs, cheese and flesh foods.

Nuts are very high in phosphorus, and quite high in calcium and iron—all very necessary mineral elements.

As a source of vitamins, nuts all have some growth vitamin A, and a good deal of the anti-neuritic vitamin B, but experiments have not yet shown that they contain the anti-scorbutic vitamin C. However, you wouldn't want to depend upon nuts so much for your vitamin supply, anyway, for you get the most of these in your fresh fruits and vegetables and milk.

There's an awful lot that's interesting about nuts, and I'm going to give you another paper on it next week.

Now about that recipe I gave you yesterday for a Nut and Cheese Loaf (taken from Rose's "Feeding the Family.") It was made of one cup grated cheese, one cup chopped walnuts, one cup grated bread crumbs, two tablespoonfuls chopped onions, one tablespoonful butter, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice, salt and pepper to suit. We tried it out today and it was delicious but the cheese didn't melt as we thought it would after cooking for half an hour, so it was still crumbly. If you want to make a loaf of it, add an egg beaten up in an ounce of milk; this will make it a cake. The total calories of the loaf, without any dressing, is 1150—230 protein, 1060 fat and 260 carbohydrates; the egg and milk add approximately 100 calories—35 protein, 55 fat and 5 carbohydrates.

Now here's another nut recipe which you can have instead of meat or fish, occasionally.

Nut Loaf.

1 cup chopped walnuts (you can substitute any other nut)
2 eggs — 1 cup bread crumbs
Two-thirds cup milk — Seasonings

Total calories, 1020—165 protein, 630 fat, 225 carbohydrates. This loaf makes about seven servings.

Teeth and Tuberculosis

BY MILES J. BREUER, M. D.

Whether or not we can say that infected and decayed teeth cause tuberculosis ,or whether they are the result of it, we are at least sure of the fact that the two conditions are frequently found associated in the same patient; and we feel that there must be some relation between them. The fact that dentists have recently been trying to impress on our minds that infected or decayed teeth are very frequently the result of poor general nutrition, becomes at once suggestive when we thing of tuberculosis. This disease is also the result, rather than the cause, of poor general nutrition. The most widely accepted view among scientific men at the present time, regarding the relation between defective teeth and tuberculosis, is based on the above dat; tuberculosis and bad teeth are both the results of a single original cause, that of improper nutrition.

In tuberculosis, there is usually an insufficiency of lime in the system; and lime is indispensable for the healing of tuberculosis; the scar tissue that is necessary in healing cannot be formed without lime. When the patient's lime metabolism can be improved, his tuberculosis also improves. The parallelism between this, and the condition of the teeth is at once apparent; the development of the teeth goes hand in hand with the lime supply. All of this means to the layman one thing: If your teeth are in poor shape, look out for tuberculosis, the disease that causes more illness and death than any other known. It does not mean necessarily that the bad teeth will cause tuberculosis; but it does mean that where the one is, the other may not be far away.

Yet, it is not difficult to conceive that a person who has defective teeth only may as a direct result of the dental deficiency develop a tuberculosis. How often has every reader of this article remarked on how good were the teeth of his grandparents who knew no skillful dentists, and how poor are the teeth of his children, who constantly have the best dental care. To the physiology student, that spells one thing: Teeth were given to us because they are necessary in handling those foods that are indispensable to a good physical condition. Our grandparents used their teeth because they had to; they ate simple primitive foods, which supply the body with materials necessary to build up good teeth. Our highly refined foods today lack teeth-building constituents; they are easy to eat, but they are inadequate.

Now, a person with defective teeth will naturally seek foods that are easy to eat, foods also that lack the proper nutritional balance. An apple, a steak, a hard piece of brown bread—these are the things that build up strong teeth and strong bodies; but a person whose teeth are infected and decayed cannot eat them. He prefers broths and refined white bread and ice-cream, thereby still further contributing to a poorly nourished physical condition. And tuberculosis is treacherous and "jumps on a man when he is down;" it does not affect the healthy and vigorous, but always comes in second when something else has already weakened the patient.

The detrimental effect of an abscess on the root of a tooth is well known. Such a "focus of infection" as medical men call it, is a constant drain on the system; it decreases biological resistance to disease, and lays the patient open to attack from every infection that goes by. The first one that is apt to arrive is tuberculosis, and it does not arrive with a great crash and alarm. It steals in in the night when all are asleep and establishes itself so quietly that no one knows it is there. It works along undermining health and structure, and the first we know of its presence is that both health and strength begin to totter.

To sum up: protection against decay and infection of teeth, is simultaneously protection against tuberculosis, because the two conditions are both caused in about the same way. Decayed or infected teeth are a sign of danger in respect to tuberculosis; they mean that if the patient does not have it already, he is in danger of acquiring it ,as a direct result of the dental defects.

Faraday And Marvels Of Color

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

On the 16th of June last year, the centenary of the discovery of benzene by Michael Faraday was celebrated at the Royal Institution in London where the great philosopher worked out his discoveries. In the commemoration address Professor H. E. Armstrong said:

"The discovery of benzene will always rank as one of the most fundamental discoveries of chemistry. If not the entire hub of the organic section of our chemical universe, it is at least the major part thereof. Our edifice in fact has two foundation stones. One, the simple carbon atom, which can be extended endlessly, as links are in a chain; the other a closed complex unit, or block of six carbon atoms, ranged as in the diamond and associated symmetrically with six atoms of hydrogen.

This latter we call benezene. It is, in fact, just a bit of diamond, mounted and preserved in hydrogen, as though this were aspic. The beauty of the diamond, however, is as nothing compared with that of benzene in the eyes of its many mistresses."

Professor Armstrong's symbolic language regarding benzene is justified by its relation to color. As he says, benzene only acquired technical importance from 1856 onwards, when William Henry Perkins, discoverer of the first aniline color, mauve, and founder of the artificial dye-stuff industry, "entered upon his great adventure at the age of nineteen." Everybody knows that today the natural coloring matters are almost entirely displaced by dyestuffs derived more or less directly from benzene. It is a field in which man has fairly beaten nnature.

Faraday did not live to see the optical splendors that were to result from his discovery of benzene, but he had a forevision of what was coming in his meditations on the origin of color as connected with the physical condition and nature of the body possessing it.

Professor Armstrong exhibited during his addresses a glorious curtain of colored textures illustrating the wonderful effects produced by manipulating the atoms in the compounds.

"Color at its first appearance," he said, "is either yellow or blue, according to the type of compound, yellow being always associated with simplicity of type. As molecular complexity is raised, yellow is gradually intensified and passes into the richest red. Blue in like manner becomes intensified and may pass into green, which is the forerunner of black."

The new anthracene vat color "jade green" was shown. Its symbol, the speaker said was "benzene soldered upon benzene many times over. The two lone, unsociable oxygen atoms are the main cause of its color. Note the wonderful change in color when these oxygen atoms are wedded each to an atom of hydrogen—now the jade green becomes a salmon red, with a most remarkable fluorescent sheen, indicating a simplification of the light absorbing mechanism.

"Note also this intensely blue hank. In jade green the oxygen atoms are related as are my thumbs when I so juxtapose my fingers that the backs of my two hands are in the same plane. Turning one hand round, my thumbs become related diagonally. Making a little change in the molecule of jade green, converting the dibenzanthrone into isodibenzanthrone, the color passes into blue; wed the oxygen with hydrogen, it passes into red of a blue shade. We can picture what would have been Faraday's and Schoenbein's delight at seeing their prophecy verified in such chameleon-like behavior."

The lay reader may not quite understand all this chemical talk, but let him put up with it and follow it, nevertheless, somewhat as he does with the unfamiliar nautical expressions in a good "sea story." It furnishes the "atmosphere" for one of science's greatest romances.

Professor Armstrong was right to invoke the spirit of Faraday to look upon the wonders that have sprung from his discovery. There is where the great scientific discoverer has an immense advantage over other leaders—his work is a planted seed, a thing of life and growth

Economics.

(Beatrice Sun.)

Economics is a most fascinating subject for study. One can explain everything that happens, usually after it happens. Take the writers for the financial journals who have been explaining the antics of the markets the past few weeks. They make economics as romantic as a tale of pirate gold.

The market slumps and the bears are blamed. Bears find no favor with the writers who act as financial interpreters. The fellows who are always boosting paper values and creating paper profits are the ones who are idolized. Why the bears didn't make the market slump sooner and to a greater extent than actually happened is a question which no one answers. If the bears had it within their power to depress prices, why didn't they do it, if for no reason but pure devilry?

The "general situation" is surveyed and found to be "sound." Writers who interpret economics to the public always find everything all right. The market slumps again, and they admit an adjustment has taken place. When it slumps again they search for some good optimistic reason and usually produce a plausable one. Then, finally, comes a day when there is an upturn and the so-called experts interpret that to mean that the depression is over. When the downward trend is resumed on the following day, in defiance of their predictions, it would seem that the prophets would hide their faces and confess their error, but they do nothing of the sort. From earliest recorded history to the present day, augurs have been noted for claiming that whatever happens confirms their prophesies.

There are always plenty of reasons why anything should happen and something always does.

The best joke I heard today was told to me by Senator Harreld of Oklahoma. He is one of the senators from just about the most progressive state we have in the union. That's a state; not just one of the 47 varieties. Senator Harreld has a bill in now to get a government hospital at Clarmore, Okla.,

for the Indians. We have no place where they can go and be treated free. It looks like the whites ought to do that much for them, after what they have took away from them. And what a selection of a place! There is hundreds of them come there now to take treatment from our wonderful waters, and Oklahoma has more Indians than any other state. Injuns are kinder queer. They like to be among their own people. Fullbloods don't like to go in a hospital among all whites. Let's give em their own. Better treat 'em good, you white folks. They may strike some more oil. So ask your congressman and senator to back this bill. We have loaned other nations enough to arm for the next war, so cure the Indian in his own hospital. The only joke about this day's joke is that this town of Claremore, where they will locate this hospital, the water will cure 'em so fast, and get all the old ones and broken down ones so well, that they will be able to rise up and take back what belongs to 'em again.

Howard Kirkpatrick of the University School of Music presented Bertha Cwings Aydelott in post-graduate voice recital at the First Christian church Monday evening. The program was a varied one, giving the singer ample opportunity to display the range of her voice. The heaviest number on the program was Ernani, Earnani, from "Ernani," perhaps Mrs. Aydelott's best group was the second on or four songs. This group and the last one, including six lovely numbers, snowed the colorful, sweet mezzo tones of Mrs. Aydelott's voice The program was as follows:

Scarlatti—Se Florindo e fedele
Haydn—Wie wedure rad.
Schumann—Widmung
Brahms—Wie bist du meine Koenigin.
Beethoven—Delizia
Schubert—The Post
Verdi—Ernani, Ernani Involami, from Ernani

MISS MILDRED MANSFIELD IN GRADUATION RECITAL.

Miss Mildred Mansfield, senior piano student with Mrs. Will Owen Jones was presented in graduation recital Monday evening at the First Christian church. Miss Mansfield is a pianist with a great deal of natural ability, and her training has been excellent She plays with a delightfully soft, and yet masterful touch which is particularly appealing. The program was necessarily short because of two recitals the same evening, but it was nevertheless well chosen and very interesting Miss Mansfield opened with a Beethoven sonata, playing each movement with variety of style Her group of five shorter numbers was ecellent, and the closing number "Invitation to the Dance," Tausig-Weber was beautifully played Miss Mansfield's skill as a true musician was shown in practically every phrase of this number.

The program was as follows:

Beethoven—Sonata, Op 31, No 1
Allegro vivace
Adagio grazioso
Rondo
Chopin—Three Preludes Nos 1, 11, 18
MacDowell—Erzhlung

Torjussen—Northern Lights.

CHAPTER 116.

Miss Hay did not think the fearful mistake she had made could be corrected without telling John the whole affair

It only she—Kate Hay, sinner—could know just what John had written to Gaylord—just how much this girl had read!

Perhaps John had told his lawyer the whole story of the courtship—of how John had saved Alice's life in the park and Alice, learning of her lover's duplicity must have suffered deep mortification and grief

All at once the girl spoke "I am sorry I read any of the letter—at least I suppose I am I feel somehow, as if I had acted dishonorably Oh!" with a shudder, "I wish I could talk to someone about it! But I cannot!"

"Unless to someone who knows the facts herself," Miss Hay ventured in her desire to relieve the young creature's burden of secrecy "Perhaps you refer to the fact that John—not him—stopped your horse that day in the Park—but, dear child—"

What!"

The word was uttered so explosively that the spinster caught her breath in alarm

The girl gripped her by the arm What are you saying" she demanded excitedly "Do you mean that it was not Jim who—

I mean nothing," Miss Kate murmured I wish to Heaven I could learn to hold my tongue! Oh, my dear, please forget what I just said I know nothing about what happened that day except a silly bit of servants gossip which I had no business to listen to and it's business to repeat! Promise me to forget about it "

Her distress was so genuine and she was in such a state of nervous agitation that Alice put aside her own dismay and strove to comfort her unhappy senior.

"Dear Miss Kate" she begged, trying to steady her voice, "I will forget anything that you did not w nt to r y But what I cannot forget is that this letter," holding the envelope toward her companion, "was not mine, and that I read a part of it I want John to know this There may be some important business here that his lawyer should attend to at once If John is able to know what has happened, I wish you would take my explanation to him"

"I think John is quite well enough to be told what has happened," Miss Hay said dully "And, of course, I must be the one to tell him."

"You need not tell him," Alice argued "I have explained that I opened the letter, read a sentence or two, then discovered that it was not for me

Miss Kate's face lighted up. "Do you really think I need tell him no more just now?" she asked tremulously.

"Certainly. If he asks questions, you will have to reply truthfully, Otherwise, wait until he is better."

"All right!" Miss Kate started toward the door, the letters in her hand. "I am glad you think it best to keep back some of the facts until the poor boy is stronger By the way," pausing on the threshold—"supppose he asks who brought this letter?"

"If he asks," Alice stammered, "I suppose he will have to know that I brought it. But he need not know I was still here. I would go away at once—only I must learn how he seems after you have talked to him

"I will not tell him that you are still here," Miss Hay assured her—"unless he asks But, even then, I will try to put him off

She did not wait for the girl's comment, but went hastily from the room, closing the door behind her

Left alone, Alice's thoughts ran wild. John here, in this house, and she could not go to him! She knew now that she had always loved him—but never so dearly as at this moment For she knew now how fine, how noble he had been It had been hard to hide from him her love when Jim was here Now, Jim was gone, she had discovered his treachery and her heart cried out for the man who had put her happiness before his own good name.

He still believed that she had loved Jim That in itself was proof that he would never care for her He would consider it disloyalty to his dead brother to feel more than a friendly liking for her

Yet he—John had saved her life! And Jim had let her think that he had done it! She had learned that much of the truth by coming to Miss Kate

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

This Flavor

alone will satisfy you in quick cooking oats —"Quaker" flavor

IN QUICK QUAKER—the world's fastest hot breakfast—the famous toasty flavor of the real Quaker Oats has been retained

That, to you, is important; for flavor is the big point, after all, in food.

No other brand has that flavor. It took Quaker Oats experts years to attain it, and, at the same time, give you 3 to 5 minute cooking.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats And that makes laxatives less often needed Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced food

That is why, in quick cooking oats, as in the regular, the important point to millions is to see the picture of a Quaker on the package of Oats that they buy

Clever Sencio Expires From Battering in Ring

Filipino Fighter Dead In Milwaukee Hospital

Ring Bout in Which Bud Taylor Showered Blows On Clever Sencio Has Tragic Climax; Boxer Found Unconscious in Hotel Room and Expired Without Regaining Senses.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20.—(I. N. S.)—Clever Sencio, Filipino flyweight boxer, died here this morning, as a result, physicians declared, of the hammering he received in a fight here last night with "Bud" Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind. Sencio was taken ill shortly after the fight and sent to Mercy hospital this morning. He died at 9:20 a. m., ten minutes after reaching the hospital.

Target For Beating.

The little Filipino, former chum of Pancho Villa, Filipino flyweight, who died in San Francisco recently, took a terrific beating in his bout last night, but the hammering he received on the head in the last few minutes of the fight is credited with causing his death.

Sencio was examined immediately after the fight by a physician, who pronounced his condition good, but it was said that the boxer still appeared dazed.

Unconscious When Found.

Sencio, although ill, went to bed at the Plankinton hotel, alone in his room. He was discovered this morning by a window washer, lying in a pool of blood caused by a hemorrhage. He was unconscious when found and did not regain consciousness before his death.

Hoosier Decisive Winner.

MILWAUKEE, April 20.—(I. N. S.)—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, had a host of friends today, following his sensational victory over Clever Sencio, the Filipino, in their ten-round bout here last night.

It was one of the best fights ever seen in Milwaukee. Sencio took a terrible beating in the final round, but his gameness won the crowd.

Taylor's advantage in reach enabled him to hold the Manila battler off with his left arm while he right-crossed to the Filipino's head and body. When they punched at close quarters, honors were about even.

Taylor won five rounds and Sencio two, while three were even. It was in the final round that the heavier and rangier Taylor piled up his margin of victory. He rained such a shower of blows on the little Filipino as to leave no doubt regarding the winner.

About 5,000 fans, including 1,000 from Chicago, paid $15,000 to see the show.

Taylor Reports to Police.

MILWAUKEE, April 20.—(AP)—Bud Taylor, who won from Clever Sencio, at last night's boxing match, appeared at the police headquarters here this morning shortly after he had been advised his opponent had died.

Taylor was questioned by police and advised to report again after the postmortem.

Forced Out of His Class.

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Clever Sencio was the second diminutive Filipino boxer to gain prominence in America recently standing only a shade below his countryman, Pancho Villa, who died recently in San Francisco from an infected jawbone after he had won the world's flyweight championship. Like his ill-starred countryman, Sencio of late had boxed so cleverly that he had, upon occasions, been forced to step out of his natural weight qualification and contest with heavier youths.

He made a remarkable showing against Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute Ind., bantamweight, in their ten-round match at Milwaukee last night and Chicago sports writers accounted Sencio's only reason for losing the fact that he fought one of the world's best boxers.

No Knockdown in Fight.

The round-by-round reports did not indicate that Sencio had suffered severely, although in the final round he was pelted by Taylor sufficiently to win the contest. There was no semblance of a knockdown blow struck during the contest.

Sencio, as was Villa, first was introduced in boxing and brought to America by Frank Churchill, an American manager of boxers, who for a time was resident in Manila.

Recalls Villa Tragedy.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(I. N. S.)—The death today of Clever Sencio, one of a number of famous little fighters sent to the United States from the Philippine Islands, recalled here the tragic end of Panco Villa, flyweight champion.

Villa died on the operating table of a local hospital. Suffering from a bad wisdom tooth, the game little fighter went through with a bout with Jimmy McLaren, despite the fact that he had visited a dentist a few hours before to have the bad tooth extracted.

The tooth pocket became infected and, virtually near death a few days later, he was rushed to a hospital for an operation to remove pus which was forming in his throat. He never came out of the anaesthetic, the muscles of his throat contracting and choking him to death.

Villa's death was believed largely due to his stoicism. Suffering great pain, he did not seek adequate treatment for the infection until it was too late.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 20.—(I.N.S.)—"I am dumbfounded and shocked," George Blake, manager of Fidel Labarba, flyweight champion of the world, said today when informed of the death of clever Sencio, Filipino boxer, following a terrific bout with Bud Taylor at Milwaukee last night.

"LaBarba and I had been arranging for a return bout with Sencio," Blake said. "He was the foremost contender for the title and boxing fans the country over demanded that he be given another chance."

Taylor's Second Victim.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(I.N.S.)—The death of Clever Sencio, Filipino boxer, following his bout last night with Bud Taylor at Milwaukee, was the second ring tragedy in which Taylor has been concerned.

On January 12, 1924, the Terre Haute bantamweight knocked out Franke Jerome at Madison Square Garden and Jerome died some hours later at Bellevue hospital.

Boxing men here declare that two deaths following beatings received from the same fighter furnish the only case of this kind on record.

Shareholders in the Lincoln Baseball Park association, an incorporated organization of local fans which owns Landis Field, under the terms of the free rent lease to the Lincoln club, are entitled to season passes to all home games.

Owners of stock may get their passes by applying in person to Earl Coryell, secretary of the park association, at his offices, 414-415 Terminal building.

Under the agreement between the directors of the park association and the management of the Lincoln club, none but the actual owners of park stock are entitled to passes.

MONEY REFUNDED TO PONY BACKERS

Foxy Scheme Evolved In Ohio To Evade State Laws Against Betting.

GROVE CITY, O., April 20—(AP)—Players of the ponies who lose and wish they had their money back can get it at Beulah park here.

Because of state anti-betting laws, the buyers of a $2 parimutuel ticket is a "contributor" and dissatisfied contributors can have their money refunded, less a dime for handling charges, if they apply within a half hour after the race.

Newspapermen who tested the rule and were given refunds pointed out a "poor loser" might "contribute" to each of seven races on the day's program and demand a refund every time he lost, spending only the 70 cents for handling charges if he made poor selections every time.

May Refuse Entrance.

But on tickets of admission to the park, the manager reserves the usual right to return the admission price and refuse entrance into the park to anyone. This, it is considered, might be invoked against a "contributor" who gave evidence of chronic dissatisfaction.

State officials so far have not interfered with the operation of the machines under the refund rule, though Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, leading foe of betting, has announced he might campaign for the governorship on an anti-betting platform it necessary. He said, however, that the type of tickets used would not serve to evade the laws against gambling and that he is collecting them as evidence.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

A crowded combination of sectional, county, invitation and dual meets decorates the track program arranged this week end for Nebraska high school athletes. The calendar of events will bring into action practically all high school squads in the interscholastic cinder realm and coaches and fans will have their first opportunity to get a "line" on the 1926 prospects.

One hundred fifty athletes, representing twenty-five or more schools, are scheduled to gather at Beatrice Friday afternoon for the annual southeast Nebraska meet. The southeastern compet has grown in size and importance the past few years and the Friday performances will be indicative of what that section of the state will have to offer at the state meet in Lincoln, May 7 and 8.

Meet at Falls City.

The Falls City invitation meet, which has attracted fifteen entrants from southeast Nebraska and northeast Kansas, also comes in for its share of attention.

Southwest Nebraska fans will divide their interest between the Red Willow county invitation meet at Indianola and the Frenchman Valley meet at Culbertson. Both should furnish fast records.

The south central part of the state will send its best to the Nelson invitation meet Saturday afternoon. Nelson will be favored to win the affair, Coach Ambrose's lads having defeated Superior and Edgar in a three-cornered contest last week.

Central Nebraska athletes will head for Grand Island, the scene of the annual Grand Island college invitation meet. The Baptists have a good-sized entry, list with Coach Ralph Pierce's Grand Island high team the favorite. The Third City aggregation won the state championship last spring.

Seven Valleys at Callaway.

The Seven Valleys meet at Calloway is another important meet. The Callaway affair always has attracted a long entry list, that part of the state being a hotbed of interest in the cinder sport.

Omaha Tech and Lincoln will lock horns in a dual meet at the Lincoln oval. Coach Floyd Gautsch's Lincoln athletes had little difficulty in carrying off the honors in the Greater Lincoln meet last week, while Coach C. E. White's Tech was an easy winner over Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs in a dual meet on the Tech track.

The second annual Havelock invitation meet is billed for Friday afternon at Ballard field in the shoptown suburb. Victory for Havelock will largely rest with the ability of George Miller and George Warga to perform. The two carried off individual honors in the Greater Lincoln meet last Saturday, both flashing remarkable all-around ability.

Tecumseh and Hastings.

The tabulated results of the annual home course relays reveals two high class high school combinations in the quartets wearing the colors of Tecumseh and Hastings high schools.

Coach Dean Higgins' Tecumseh lads excelled in the sprint relays while Coach Dwight Thomas' athletes had the better of the argument in the distance events.

The performance of those two teams reflects the advantage of a booming track interest on the part of the students and citizens. Tecumseh has always been represented by a powerful track aggregation, while Hastings has always been in the running for track titles.

High School Pentathlon.

High school athletes at present are finishing up their scoring in the annual selective interscholastic pentathlon and individual all-around championship. The score-sheets are to be forwarded to Coach Henry F. Schulte of the University of Nebraska Saturday, April 24.

Banners will be awarded the winning schools in three classes, the teams being graded according to male enrollment of the school. The fifteen best individual performers will be awarded medals. Pentathlon records are:

120-yard high hurdles—25.8 seconds by H. Trumbie, Cambridge, '25.

220-yard dash—21.8 seconds by H. Hann, Grand Ishland, '25.

880-yard run—2 minutes 4 seconds by H. Welch, Gothenburg, '24.

Pole vault—12 feet by J. Rhodes, Ansley, '22.

Broad jump—21 feet 5 inches by P. Wyatt, Scottsbluff, '24.

Team record—16,905 by Grand Island, '25.

Stars From Coast On Way to Drake

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 20.—(I. N. S.)—Bud Houser, holder of the world discus record, left today with Leighton Dye and Kenny Grumbles for the Drake relays at Des Moines. Dye and Grumbles are holders of the high and low hurdles I. C. A. A. A. titles. The three athletes will represent the University of Southern California.

American polo players pay as much as $10,000 for a pony.

LINKS' DEFENSE CRACKS IN SIXTH

Zwilling Crew Took Beating In Final Clash With Indian Tribe.

Mills, New Man at Second, Appears First Time In Lincoln Uniform.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 20.—Defense of the Links let down in the sixth inning yesterday and the Indians, taking advantage of the opening by bunching their hits, clipped off five runs and got away with a clean sweep of the three-game series. Final score of the game was 8 to 6.

Patty, a youngster, went the nine-inning route for the Indians, while the Links used Marty, Pallas and Houck, the defeat being charged against Pallas.

The Links spurted in the fifth, compiling four runs, but the home club's sixth-inning rally cooked Lincoln's goose.

New Player at Second.

Mills, a second-baseman with the Enid club of the Southwestern league last season, appeared in a Lincoln uniform yesterday, poling a single in three times at bat, scoring one run and accepting seven of eight chances. Mills will get a tryout with the Links and is a candidate to crowd Swanson off the keystone sack.

Manager Zwilling still was missing from the Lincoln lineup, due to a wrenched knee, and Bloodgood continued to chase flies in the middle garden.

The Links moved to St. Joseph last night for a series of three games. Yesterday's score:

Marsh Turns Light On Methods of Mat Trust

BY J. C. MARSH.

Editor "Collyer's Eye," Chicago: I am receiving so many letters from readers of the Eye and from others who have followed my long battle with the trust, asking for full details of my split with Martin Plestina, that I find that it will be impossible for me to answer each one separately, so I am asking you to grant me space in your columns, so that I may reply to them all at one time, and also to others who may write me later.

My split with Marin Plestina came after nine years of the hardest battling ever waged against the wrestling trust. It was due to the treachery of Marin Plestina and nothing else. I found that he was conniving with the enemy (trust), not only to ruin me in the eyes of the wrestling world, and also in the eyes of those who have fought with me long years, but at the same time discredit all those who had battled so faithfully for him through those years.

Crooked Writers for Sale.

Those of you who have followed the many exposures of the hippodromes through these columns have learned much of the crookedness of these so-called wrestlers also, and manipulations of their managers and all connected with them. But great as has been the exposure of the Eye and other publications, the whole has not been told. The wrestling trust openly boasts that it has one or more papers fixed in the cities where it is allowed to operate, and that nothing but a government investigation can ever stop its work.

No one, not even Marin Plestina himself, could possibly know the long, hard battle I have fought. Everything mean and underhanded has been used against me, and also against Plestina, in this fight, and when we were about to triumph, he fell. For when the trust were about to be crushed they induced Martin Plestina to desert. This is not guess work. Becoming suspicious of Plestina's actions, I put trailers on him, and found that he had had meetings, many of them, with the enemy. I called him in and accused him of it. At first he denied it, but later admitted it, and even tried to persuade me to join him. It was then I ordered him from my presence and notified the world that I was through with him.

Plestina False to Friends.

Nine years ago when he came to me and asked me to manage him and help him fight the wrestling trust, and also to put him as far up the championship ladder as he could go, I pointed out to him the tremendous battle we would have to fight in order to win. He promised that he would stick to the end. But he wasn't equal to that promise. Nor was he strong enough to keep faith with all those publications and individuals who had stood shoulder to shoulder with us.

To me there is no excuse for Plestina's action. It was his fight we were all fighting, and he was the only one who could possibly benefit by it, and he is the only one who proved false. Yet

Tex Hot on Trail of Dempsey-Tunney Ring Joust

Rickard Invades Texas To Close Dempsey Fight

Promoter Tex in Fort Worth Awaiting Arrival of Champion Jack; Latter in Receptive Mood and Declares Readiness to Take on Gene Tunney in Glove Joust for Title.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 20.—(I. N. S.) — Jack Dempsey was expected to arrive here this afternoon to meet Tex Rickard and sign articles of agreement whereby he will defend his world's heavyweight title against Gene Tunney.

The match, if Dempsey signs the agreement, will be held in New York in the later summer. One of the three dates—August 12, September 3, or September 16—is to be selected, it is understood. It is not known what size purse Rickord will offer Dempsey.

Champion Jack Willing.

Dempsey left El Paso for Fort Worth last night. Tex is quoted as saying he is willing and anxious to meet Tunney.

"I understand Rickard is prepared to talk business and I intend to meet him more than half way," the champion said.

Rickard arrived here late yesterday and said all arrangements for the signing of the contract were completed and all that stands in the way of the fight was Dempsey's signature.

The arrangements for the meeting today were made by wire before leaving New York, Rickard said.

Gotham Board Wrought Up.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(I. N. S.)—If Tex Rickard signs Jack Dempsey today to a contract to box Gene Tunney this summer, as news dispatches from Fort Worth indicate, there will be a boxing war between Rickard and the New York state boxing commission, according to the general belief here.

James A. Farley, chairman of the board, has forbidden any promoter to deal with Dempsey, unless the negotiations have in view a bout with Harry Wills.

On excellent authority it was declared that Rickard is in danger of having his license revoked here if he persists in signing Dempsey and Tunney.

Masked Marvel X To Display Skill At Hotel Lincoln

An entertainment of mystery in the art of playing of billiards by the "Masked Marvel X" will take place in Lincoln Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evenings at Hotel Lincoln billiard parlor, when the most picturesque billiard and pocket billiard player in the history of the game will appear incognito at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening on each of the two days mentioned. The public is invited.

The player, whose identity has never been learned because he wears a black hooded mask and does not talk during an exhibition game, has defeated many of the professional cueists. All his movements before and after the match are clouded in the utmost secrecy and mystery. When he enters Hotel Lincoln he will wear a black hood and carry a blackboard on which he writes whatever he wishes to have made known to his audience. He will also explain trick shots in this manner.

The masked marvel is equally clever in pocket billiards and 3-cushion billiards and is master of many difficult and trick shots. No admission will be charged to these exhibitions.

Touching the Bases.

The Giants again knocked the Braves silly to the tune of 8 to 3 and slid into first place in the National league standing.

The Cards went fourteen innings before giving up the ghost to the Cubs in a 5 to 4 thriller. Walter Huntzinger, collegian obtained by St. Louis from the Giants, went the route and almost got away with it.

Brooklyn uncovered another crack hurler in Bob McGraw, who held the slugging Phils to five hits and beat them 4 to 2. The Dodgers made the most of their six hits off Wayland Dean.

Carl Mays held the Pirates to four singles and seven fouls as the Reds took a 2 to 1 battle from the champs making it two out of three in the present series.

Cleveland knocked Ted Blankenship out of the box and beat the White Sox, 5 to 1. Sherry Smith pitched air tight ball for the winners.

The Browns finally won a game, beating the Tigers, 4 to 1, with the aid of Warner, Detroit's third baseman, who committed every error known to the diamond except buying an umpire a drink. Gaston was the winning pitcher.

SPORT'S Hall of Fame.

SPITBALLS DON'T SEEM TO BE SHORTENING FABER'S CAREER.

Nominating:

URBAN FABER.

Because he is red-headed and Irish;

Because, at 38, he is preparing for his nineteenth season as a pitcher;

Because he is laughing at the wise guys who say the "spitball" ruins a hurler's arm in a few years;

Because he figures on pitching in the world's series this year—for the White Sox.

LINKS' ROOKIES, TO LOWER LOOP

Wilkins and Painter Headed For Ponca City Club In Oklahoma.

Lincoln Club Retains Right To Repurchase Players At End of Season.

Edson Wilkins, pitcher, and Russell Painter, infielder, California rookies with the Lincoln club during the spring practice season in Oklahoma, have been released to the Jim Beltzer-Bob Browne club at Ponca City, Okla., in the Southwestern league. Formal release papers were signed up today by Charles N. Moon, business manager for the Links, and James Beltzer, president of the Ponca City club, and the two youngsters are scheduled to pull away from Lincoln Wednesday, heading for Ponca City.

EDSON WILKINS.

"Manager Zwilling rates Wilkins and Painter as fine baseball prospects," Moon said today. "Wilkins is a curveball artist of exceptional possibilities, but needs a season's experience in a league of lower class than the Western. The same suggestion applies to Painter, who looks like a coming shortstop. The Links will want them back at the end of the Southwestern league season and have entered into an agreement which will make it possible to repurchase the two players."

Signs Nebraska Talent.

Manager Bob Browne, who will serve as player-pilot at Ponca City, announced today that he will take a string of Nebraska ball players to the Oklahoma town. Practice at Ponca City is due to get under way Thursday and the pennant race in the Southwestern loop will start May 6. Nebraskans signing up with the Beltzer-Browne combination include Jim Lang, former University of Nebraska catcher; Adolph Lebsock, left-handed pitcher, and Adolph Stroh, outfielder, both of Lincoln; Costello, outfielder from Exeter; Pitcher Craig of Fairbury, who trained with the Links in Oklahoma, and McConnell, a catcher.

The Ponca City manager and several of his players will pull away from Lincoln Wednesday morning making the trip to Oklahoma by automobile.

HUSKERS-HAWKS IN TROPHY TILT

Nebraska and Iowa Doped to Run Tight Race In Mile Relay at Drake.

A hot argument is expected to develop at the Drake relays this week when the Iowa and Nebraska teams clash in the mile relay. The mile trophy is at present in the care of the Cornhusker athletes, Nebraska mile quartet having won that event at Drake last year.

The Hawkeyes, however, have two legs on the trophy and need only a third to gain permanent possession.

The Nebraska mile relay team finished second to Illinois at the Kansas relays last week. The Cornhusker quartet was composed of Dailey, Beerkle, Davenport and Wyatt. There is a chance that Coach Schulte may insert Locke into the combination at Drake.

Members of the Cornhusker squad eased through a light workout at the stadium Monday afternoon. Every member of the squad was in suit. Locke, who equalled the world record for the 100-yard dash last Saturday, coasted a quarter-mile, indicating that his "spiked" heel was giving him little trouble.

Tiger Flowers, world's middleweight champion, is the third "southpaw" fighter to win a pugilistic throne. Both former left-handed champions, Al McCoy and Johnny Wilson, were middleweights.

Emery Ball Took Break Opposite Its Rough Spot

BY AL DEMAREE.

Of all the outlawed freak deliveries the emery ball was the most freakish and sensational. Some of the boys could almost make them talk and if allowed free use of it were virtually impossible to hit.

Eddie Cicotte and Russell Ford were two of the greatest exponents of this delivery, but there are some pretty good ones in the game today who can make the pill perform when they get hold of a ball that has been roughened.

The emery ball is thrown by roughening one side of the cover with the finger nail, belt buckle or shoe plate and holding the rough spot opposite the direction the ball is wanted to sail or break.

The shine ball is a brother to the emery or roughened ball, the only difference being that the ball breaks in the same direction as the shined side of the ball.

Wise Men of Baseball Do Poor Job of Picking

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(I. N. S.)—If the remaining twenty-one weeks of the major league campaigns parallels the first rounded out today, the boys who spent the off-season telling how the clubs would finish, and why, probably will obey that impulse and strike for more pads and bigger gells. They simply won't put up with the old accommodations, which never were adequate for emergency cases, anyhow.

Two weeks from now, the great wrong is likely to be righted, but, at the moment, every one seems to be crazy except the boys and even some of them are beginning to suspect one another.

Pirates Not Hitting.

The situation is more than abnormal, with the Athletics and Browns trailing the American league race and a slugging club like the champion Pirates not only well down in the National league's second division but averaging only a trifle more than three runs a game.

Lack of hitting is the answer to the Pirates' position, plus the fact that the outfit has been handicapped by injuries and pre-season rains. The club was last at this time last year, so the Allegheny river still is free of floating bodies.

Dead Ball In Evidence.

Of course, with the exception of the Phillies, no club is hitting as it did in 1925, the "dead" ball having reinstated pitching to popular favor. But, irrespective of conditions, the Athletics and Browns are hitting far below the pace that every big league club should be able to follow.

This morning's returns show the Athletics with the absurd total of eighteen runs for seven games. They hit fairly well after Johnson and Coveleskie knocked them over in the first two games, but have not made the most of their hitting.

With the new ball in effect, it seems possible that some of us may have over-rated the Athletics. It will be a speed game from now on and Mack's entry is far from smart on the bases.

Browns Get Poor Start.

The Browns simply have got away flat-footed, which is not surprising in view of the fact that the club's pitchers have not shown a thing, but the hitters have made it none too easy for them, at that, by getting only seventeen runs in six games.

However, the Reds and Indians have shown that they can win their games without a superfluity of runs. The Indians, indeed, have been the surprise of the early going, their pitchers carrying a slugging outfit which has not scored, neither have they hit.

Reds Have Good Pitching.

The Reds were expected to be punchless and so far they have disappointed no one. However, one cannot go behind their pitching any more than one can go behind a plate glass window and that is the reason the Reds are up with the pace. They probably will stay there.

The Cardinals, Giants and White Sox, at present engaged in front-running the respective races, also are getting by without a great plenty of hitting. The Sox are getting the best pitching in the American league with the possible exception of the Senators, who also have failed to hit them far and often.

Cards Make Bats Count.

The Cards' pitching has been unusually good, but it has been the team's ability to hit with runners on that has furnished the most encouragement. It has been a one-inning club, and with a dead ball, that kind of an outfit seldom goes wrong.

McGraw is getting only fair hitting and pitching, but is leading the league this morning because he has beaten the gun by bringing his tactics right up to date. The Giants are base-running their way to victory.

Yanks and Phils.

Two clubs, the Yanks and Phillies have been doing the only real hitting to date. The Phils have made eighty hits in seven games and, therefore, are in the first division. If the Yanks had the pitching they were supposed to have under cover, they would have been well out in front by this time.

The Tigers are up with the leaders, but the club would have done much better if its real punch had asserted itself, which it didn't.

Canadian Runner Shows Heels To Olympic Champ

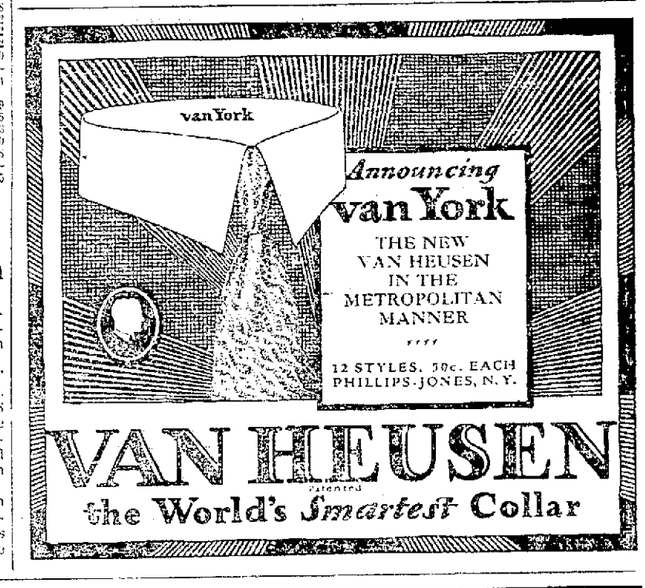

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP)—A youth of eighteen, running his first marathon race, set a new world's record here yesterday. John C. Miles of Sydney Mines, N. S., was first home in the annual Boston A. A. marathon in a field of eighty-eight running, which included Albin Stenroos of Finland, Olympic champion, and Clarence Demar of Melrose, four times winner of the event.

The winner's time of 2 hours, 75 minutes, 40 2-5 seconds was nearly four minutes under the world's record, set by Demar over the same course in 1924. Demar's record was 2:29:40 1-5.

The Nova Scotia youth set a pace that forced Stenroos himself to clip 1-5 of a second off the old world record. The veteran Denver was a poor third at the finish line. His time was 2:32:15. Stenroos was timed in 2:29:40.

A dirt track for greyhound racing is to be built in Newark, N. J., at a cost of $1,000,000.

COOLIDGE URGES GREATER USE OF BALLOT POWERS

Tells D. A. R. Republic Depends On Performance Of Duty at the Polls.

Believes Drastic Action Is Needed to Arouse Voters Of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Citizenship in America is not a private enterprise, but a public function, President Coolidge, said in an address last night before the thirty-fifth congress of the national society of the Daughters of the American Revolution during which he urged the people to exercise a greater interest in their government by going to the polls on election day.

"The whole system of government," he asserted, "rests on the ballot box. Unless citizens perform their duties there, such a system of government is doomed to failure."

Making a passing reference to law observance as it relates to the duties of citizenship, the president said that it "cannot be denied that in the splendor and glamor of our life the moral sense is sometimes blinded."

"It cannot be disputed," he said, "that in too many quarters there is a lack of reverence for authority and of obedience to law. Such occurences are sporadic and produce their own remedy. When society finds that its life and property are in peril from evildoers, it is very quick to organize its forces for its own protection. That cannot fail to be done in our own country, for our people as a whole are thoroughly law abiding."

Not Greatest Danger.

The president held, however, that it was not in violence and crime that the greatest danger lies, for these evils were quickly apparent and could be suppressed. A far more serious danger, he said, "lurks in the shirking of those responsibilities of citizenship, where the evil may not be so noticeable but is more insidious and likely to be more devastating."

The address was delivered on the anniversary of the battles of Concord and Lexington, and after referring to the form of government set up as a result of the revolution, Mr. Coolidge said:

"If we are to keep our representative form of government and to maintain the principle that the majority shall rule, it behooves us to take some drastic action to arouse the voters of this country to a greater interest in their civic duties on election day. Many remedies have been proposed, from disfranchisement to criminal action. The most practical, I believe, however, is for all bodies of men and women interested in the welfare of this country to join together under some efficient organization to correct this evil . . .

Vote Not Double.

"It was hoped that giving the vote to women would arouse a more general interest in the obligations of election day. That has not proved to be the case. The presidential election in 1920 was the first after the adoption of the universal suffrange amendment. There is no way to divide the total vote cast by men and women. But, after that election some rather complicated calculations were made based on the assumption that the accession of women might be presumed to double the vote. The calculators reached the conclusion that of the approximate 27,000,000 votes cast only 37 per cent represented the votes of women. Some say the percentage of feminine vote was greater in 1924. Others say it was less.

"I am not disposed to accept these conclusions as altogether fair to the women. And it stands to reason that it would take some time for them to become used to exercising the privilege which had belonged to the men of this country for many generations.

"It is not my purpose to draw any distinction between the men and the women as to the extent to which they take advantage of their privilege and perform their duty at the ballot box. But rather it is my idea to call your attention to the startling fact that in the last two presidential elections barely 50 per cent of those qualified to vote have done so. In the senatorial elections in off years the voting percentage is much smaller. . . .

"The perilous aspect of this situation lies in its insidiousness. With the broadening of popular powers, the direct election of practically all public officials, and the direct nomination of most of them, there is no opportunity for an expression of the public will except at the ballot box. It is perfectly evident that all those who have selfish interests will go to the polls and will be active and energetic in securing support for their proposals and their candidates. The average voter supports what he believes to be the public interest. Unless they appear on election day that interest will go unrepresented."

Address Broadcast.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Daughters of the American revolution opened Monday thirty-fifth continental congress and last night were joined by thousands of radio listeners to hear an address by President Coolidge. Several stations covering the eastern half of the country were linked to broadcast the speech. Speaker Longworth of the house of representative, and Ambassador Berenger of France, were on the program, following the president.

The delegates divided attention Monday between an address by their president-general, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook and discussion of the forthcoming election of her successor. Two candidates are already in the field for the positions Mrs. Charles White Nash, the New York state regent, and Mrs. Fred Brosseau of Greenwich, Conn.

"HOMICIDE" IS JURY VERDICT

Herrin Coroner's Tribunal Makes Non-Commital Decision.

HERRIN, Ill., April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The coroner's jury which has been investigating Herrin's latest factional clash, which last Tuesday resulted in the death of six men, returned a verdict of "homicide" last night after an all day session.

The principal witness heard Monday was Deputy Circuit Clerk John Ford, an eye witness to the shootings, who miraculously escaped death last Tuesday and who is a candidate for alderman in today's city election here.

State's Attorney Arlie Boswell and Coroner George Bell, who conducted the inquest and who were opposed to taking testimony in the presence of newspaper men, said that none appearing before the jury named a single person who took part in the fighting although it is reported that names of alleged participants are freely mentioned on the streets.

In all fourteen witnesses were heard by the jury before adjournment was taken.

Yesterday two guns, found abandoned by the attackers were presented as evidence. One was a large calibre rifle, which after jamming had been thrown aside during the fight and the other was a sawed-off shot gun abandoned in flight from the scene.

State's Attorney Arlie Boswell made a written request to Lieutenant Colonel Davis for military protection at today's election.

An unoccupied house belonging to State Representative Wallace A. Randy of Marion, was burned to the ground here Sunday and another house owned by the representative was destroyed by fire at Marion yesterday. Randy has been active in klan circles recently and the two fires, presumably of incendiary origin, may be connected with Herrin's factional strife.

VOLSTEAD LAW IS ENFORCEABLE DRYS DECLARE

Assistant Attorney General Says No More Difficult Than Other Acts.

Bishop Cannon Asserts Should Be Upheld In "Wet" East at Any Cost.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Volstead act can be enforced relatively as easy as other laws, Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, in charge of liquor prosecutions, declared Monday before the senate prohibition committee.

Appearing for the Methodist Episcopal church, south, Bishop James Cannon, jr., declared that the law should be enforced in the wet sections of the east at whatever cost of men and money to protect the remainder of the country.

Tightening up of the enforcement statute also was urged by Mrs. Ella A. Boole of New York, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union; Fred B. Smith, chairman of the citizens committee of 1,000 for law observance and enforcement, and Col. Walter F. Jenkins of New York, national secretary of the Salvation army, who appeared as the personal representative of Commander Evangeline Booth.

While the committee thus was deluged with requests for tightening up the law, another administration measure was drawn up Monday by the treasury to make more effective the present coast defense against contraband liquor.

Plan Drive on Smugglers.

At the same time discussion of further agreements with Great Britain for curbing smuggling from that country were renewed, with a trip by state and treasury department officials to London in prospect in connection with the international phase of the situation.

With the exception of Bishop Cannon, all of the witnesses Monday, and especially Mrs. Willebrandt, were questioned at length by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the wet prosecutor. This finally led to formal written protests from those presenting the case for the drys with the result that Chairman Harreld announced that the drys would be given additional time.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Senator Reed engaged in a good deal of fencing, with the senator disagreeing with her conclusion that the Volstead act could be enforced as well as other laws.

Mrs. Willebrandt said she based her conclusions as to law enforcement on conditions in those states which are doing their part in enforcement, citing particularly Kansas and Idaho.

Senator Reed Disputes.

Senator Reed disputed the assertion that the law is being well enforced in Kansas, citing police statistics of arrests in Atchison and Kansas City, Kas., He also called attention to the seizure of thousands of stills in southern states which were dry before the Eighteenth amendment was ratified.

With respect to the "wet sector" of the east, on which Bishop Cannon laid stress, Mrs. Willebrandt said the federal government would have to keep on hammering away at law enforcement there until the states without enabling acts "fall into line."

"The way out of the present situation is not by surrender," declared Mrs. Smith on behalf of the committee of 1,000. "The Eighteenth amendment and Volstead act can be reasonably enforced if the various states, the municipalities and the federal government will give adequate support to these measures."

HOUSE TO ACT ON TWO BILLS

Committee Decides To Permit Vote On Haugen and Tincher Measures.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The house agriculture committee decided today to give the house an opportunity to vote on both the Haugen and Tincher farm relief bills.

The Haugen bill is an amended form of the corn belt plan and would stabilize prices by levying an equalization fee on wheat, corn, cattle, and swine. The Tincher measure, supported by the administration, would set up a revolving fund of $100,000,000 to extend credit to farmers' co-operative associations.

The committee as a whole, did not form a definite alignment today on either bill, but the supporters of each voted to allow both to reach the floor.

Despite lack of a definite alignment as between the measures, Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, author of one of them, said republican committeeman had voted to report both, with democrats opposing such a course.

Enforcement Is Urged By League Women Voters

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP)—The National League of Women Voters' convention today dejected a minority report of a special committee on prohibition calling on congress "to resist all attempts to undermine or weaken the provisions of the eighteenth amendment." The vote was 171 to 79.

The convention then adopted by acclamation the majority report favoring law enforcement in general, demanding that the president, secretary of the treasury and all state and local officers use the fullest extent the power conferred on them for the enforcement of prohibition, and advocating civil service rules for appointment of prohibition agents.

Wants Samples Of Illegal Bread

The chief of the United States food and drug inspection station at Denver has asked the Nebraska food, food, drug and oil bureau to procure and forward samples of bread shipped from Denver into western Nebraska and being sold there, which does not conform to the state law requiring the net weight of loaves to be stamped on the wrappers.

Complaints have been coming in about this illegal bread being sold in competition with Nebraska products which meet the law's requirements. The state bureau sent word to the federal office at Denver and asked its co-operation. After the data asked for is supplied, it is expected that prosecutions will be started against Denver bakers.

RUM RUNNER ESCAPES.

MILWAUKEE, April 20.—(AP)—Gunshots Monday from a federal coast guard cutter here chased from Milwaukee harbor a rum runner, marking the first actual warfare this year on Lake Michigan against liquor smugglers. Two one pound shots were fired by the bow cannon of the cutter and the six guardsmen who manned the craft sent fifty pistol bullets after the fugitive boat which sped to the north. Much speedier than the cutter, the strange boat easily shook off escape and did not return the fire.

SCOPE OF A. P. IS BROADENED

Directors Meeting In New York Hear How Service Improved.

Members Pay Silent Tribute To Memory Of Victor F. Lawson.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Broadening of the scope of the Associated Press during the past year "to encompass a more complete picture of what the world is doing" was recounted in a report of the board of directors at a special meeting of the news organization at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel Monday.

While the organization has continued to strive for truthful reporting and has not diminished its efforts to obtain news of prime importance, the report said, the year had witnessed a greater effort to obtain news "of the activities of women, art, music, amusements, including the theater and moving pictures, of science and of literary affairs."

The meeting was preliminary to the annual business meeting and luncheon today at which Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg was to deliver the principal address. Frank B. Noyes of the Washington, D. C. Star, president of the Associated Press, will be toastmaster. Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, and Jorge Mitres, editor of la Nacion Buenos Aires also will speak. The addresses will be broadcast by WJZ and WGY.

The question of liberalizing the association's policy in broadcasting news by radio was discussed at the meeting yesterday by a number of speakers but no definite action was taken. During the past year the organization has given its members permission to broadcast some of the more outstanding news.

Some of the speakers in urging a more liberal use of radio news argued that sales of newspapers had been increased as a result and others said it added to the prestige of the association and the papers.

At the start of the meeting the members stood in silence for one minute in memory of Victor F. Lawson of the Chicago Daily News, first president of the Associated Press, who died last year.

Increased co-operation of the members, expansion of the supplementary news report, improvement in the state services for interchange of news and the increased facilities for transmitting news were commended by various speakers.

Tribute To Cooper.

At the close of the meeting, President Noyes paid a personal tribute to Mr. Cooper, who is rounding out his first year as general manager. Mr. Noyes said in part:

"As an executive officer, my work has been greatly aided and I feel sure your interests have been very greatly assisted by the work of Mr. Cooper.

"I am sure that since the days of many years ago when Melville E. Stone (former general manager and now counsellor) was in very close intimate contact with the membership, that there has been no such successful effort to bring the executive side of the Associated Press into close contact with the members and to learn what the members wanted, so far as it was humanly possible and to do what members wanted, so far as it was practicable to do.

"Mr. Cooper, as you know, has traveled throughout the country indefatigably since his elevation to the post of general manager and, I think, to the immense benefit of each of us."

Woman's Damage Action Against Doctor Is Heard

The damage suit brought by Amy Wolfe against Dr. Arthur E. Walker to collect $25,000 for injuries which she claims she suffered as a result of an attack made upon her by the doctor, went on trial Tuesday afternoon in District Judge Stewart's court.

The plaintiff charges that on July 11, 1924, she was attacked by Dr. Walker at his office, 1115 O street. The petition claims she was struck and slapped and stuck with a hat pin. She asks $20,000 for the injuries she says she suffered, and $5,000 for false imprisonment. She claims that Walker kept her locked in his office several hours.

Walker claims that he did not strike the woman. He says that after following him around for several hours, she struck him over the head with a parasol. Later she fainted, because of the heat, and he took her to his office in an attempt to revive her. He denies injuring her in any way.

Pheasant Shipping Will Cost State More Than $20,000

A huge pile of express and other transportation claims, several hundred in number and weighing 2 pounds, representing the cost of shipping over 15,000 pheasants to Lincoln and then shipping them out from here to many points over the state, during the recent trapping campaign in Howard and Sherman counties, was turned over Tuesday forenoon to Secretary of State Pool by Chief Game Warden, with a single voucher calling for the lump sum payment of $2,621.

The voucher was drawn in favor of the game and fish bureau, which will pay the express bills and other shipping charges out of its appropriation for conservation and propagation of wildfowl.

About $16,000 was paid out also to over 50 men who trapped and sent in pheasants, at the rate of $1 for each bird. Several hundred pheasants that died in shipment to Lincoln were paid for, the same as those which came through alive. One lot of over 100 which succumbed in transit, however, because of being packed in too closely without sufficient air space, was not paid for.

There was considerable other expense in handling the pheasants, for labor, crate materials, drayage and other items. Altogether, the state's outlay in redistributing the 15,000 pheasants is more than $20,000.

In both the juries found the defendant guilty.

In the first, the Supreme court found error and in the second such evidences of local prejudice that it remanded the case and recommended change of venue to another county. Judge Paine presided at the first and Judge Clements at the second trial. Garfield, being in the same judicial district, adjacent to Valley county, Judge Clements will again preside in the third trial

Seven Judges To Rehear Suit Of Standard Oil Co.

In order that all seven judges of the Nebraska supreme cort may be on the bench when the rehearing of the Standard Oil Co's suit to force the closing of the Lincoln municipal filling station takes place, the case has been put over until next Friday. Judge Good was still indisposed Tuesday, and for that reason the court passed the suit on its calendar.

No regular session is scheduled for Friday, but a special sitting will be held at that time, if Judge Good is then able to take his place on the bench, for both the Standard Oil case and the Peterson suit against the state of Nebraska involving $33,000 claimed as additional payment on a highway contract.

District Judge W. A. Redick of Omaha was still on the supreme bench Tuesday, in place of Judge Good. Judge Thompson, absent Monday, was back in his seat. Judge Thompson will retire when the Peterson case is heard, on account of his membership on the capital commission, where he is associated with State Engineer Cochran, chief defendant in the suit.

Knee Deep in Real Beer!

United States Marshal Thomas C. Smith standing knee deep in real beer at a "wildcat" brewery on the outskirts of Aurora, Ill. The picture was taken when Marshal Smith donned rubber boots and waded through the beer to open a valve in one of the tanks. Holes were broken in the vats and the beer allowed to flow onto the floor and then through a drain into the sewers. The brewery, which had been operating in "big league" fashion was raided a few weeks ago.

One Thin Woman Gained 10 Pounds In 20 Days

Skinny Men Can Do The Same

All weak men and women
All nervous men and women
All skinny men and women

Can grow stronger, healthier and more vigorous and take on solid needed flesh in 30 days just by taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets four times a day—as easy to take as candy.

And what a bit these flesh producing tablets have made. One druggist tripled his sales in one week.

Everybody knows that nasty-tasting evil-smelling Cod Liver Oil is a wonderful vitalizer, flesh producer and health creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff, when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, are just as good and so easy to take.

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents and if any skinny man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days—money back. Ask Harley Drug Co., or any druggist.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and don't forget there is nothing on earth so good to make backward, listless, underweight children grow strong and robust.—Advertisement.

HUSBAND DID THE WASHING

His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.

One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the newspaper to read. Among the advertisements she noticed a letter from another sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I'll try it," she decided.

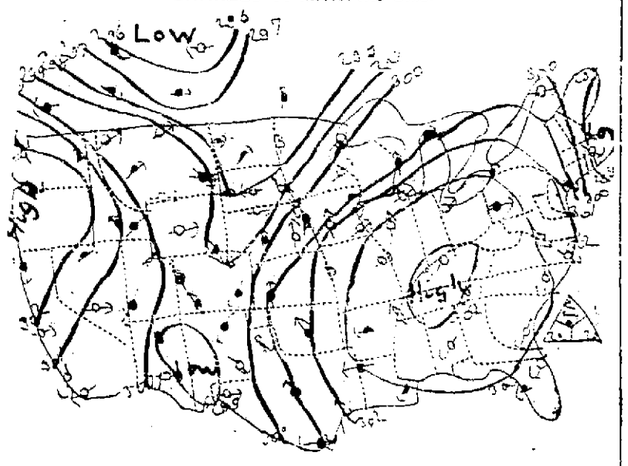

Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.

In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She has told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 5, Brownwood, Texas.

Ask your neighbor.

Market Quotations

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 20.

Wheat price underwent a sharp decline in the late dealings today. Reports were at hand that wheat shipments from Duluth and Minneapolis have been arranged for delivery on May contracts here. Houses with eastern connections were heavy sellers, apparently to realize profits on account of the big advance of late. Besides, showers were forecast for the Dakotas and Minnesota, and it was said that spring wheat seeding had been making rapid progress both sides of the international line.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼ to 2c net lower, corn ⅝ to ⅞c and oats a shade to ⅛c down.

WHEAT—Wheat prices here took a decided upward swing early today, influenced by excessively dry weather both south and north of the Canadian boundary and by the fact that Liverpool quotations on July wheat are at a full shipping difference compared with Chicago. Chicago opening prices, 1 to 1⅜c higher, May (new), $1.68¾@1.69 and July, $1.45 @1.45¼, were followed by a material further advance and then by a reaction in which part of the gains were wiped out.

CORN—Corn and oats were responsive to wheat strength, despite fine weather for field work. Opening ⅜ to ½c higher, May 74⅛@74¼c, the corn market rose a little more and then eased down somewhat.

OATS—Oats started ⅜ to ¾c up, May 42⅞@43c, and held near to the initial range.

PROVISIONS—In line with hog values and with grain, the provision market was firm.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 20.

Further irregularity of price movement developed in today's stock market, but the main price movement appeared to be upward with the local tractions, shippings and steels in the forefront of the advance.

Trading in the general list was extremely dull, total sales in the first three hours barely exceeding 500,000 shares, based on unfavorable trade conditions and a sudden drop of 16 points in Federal Mining & Smelting common on the announcement of a court decision suspending dividend payments on that stock, failed to cause and unsettlement elsewhere. Rails displayed a firm undertone with special interest shown in the first two March earnings reports to make their appearance, those of the Union Pacific and Kansas City Southern roads of which reported higher incomes than a year ago. Union Pacific's gross totalled $19,095,760, compared with $16,012,401 last March, and Kansas City Southern showed gross of $1,894,596 against $1,762,240. Corresponding increases were shown in net income.

Confused price movements characterized the opening of today's stock market. Armour issues were again under selling pressure, the A stock opening a point lower and heaviness also developed in some of the motors. Rails displayed a firm undertone, Atchison, showing an initial gain of 1¼ points. Texas Gulf Sulphur also opened a point higher and U. S. Steel common improved fractionally.

A more careful study of Chairman Gary's remarks on the dividend policy and business outlook for the U. S. Steel corporation apparently failed to cause any further apprehension as that stock crossed 119 for a net gain of nearly one point before the end of the first hour. Paris dispatches, indicating that a working basis had been reached for a funding of the French debt to the U. S. also had a bullish effect on sentiment, although the French franc was still under selling pressure from abroad, declining slightly to another low record around 3.30 cents. Pool operations were resumed in the local tractions and good buying was noted for such issues as California Packing, Postum Cereal, DuPont, Marine preferred, Colorado Fuel and Woolworth. Demand sterling opened firm at 4.86 and 13-16 but most of the other European rates yielded slightly.

The closing was strong. Sales approximated 900,000 shares.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Passage of the co-operative marketing bill by the United States senate has met favor on board of trade officials. The bill purposes to prevent grain exchanges from discriminating against marketing associations. There has been no opposition to members of marketing associations joining the exchanges, providing they comply with the rules, it is claimed.

Wheat may become so scarce in the United States that foreigners will be forced to take rye as a substitute before the end of the season, in the opinion of one exporter. This exporter is back of some recent buying of rye.

The eastern part of Nebraska needs rain, but the wheat will recover if moisture is obtained soon, said a wire received here from George M. Leesnt at Kansas City. Eastern Kansas is looking fine, while the spring wheat territory now is in the most critical condition, he reported.

The Rock Island report on winter wheat estimates 337,160,000 bushels for this year in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. Last year's figure was 159,000,000 bushels.

it had adjourned, the circumstances were a tacit admission that it believed the colonel guilty of appearing drunk in the public rooms of the Hotel Del Coronado the night he gave a dinner party in honor of General Butler.

Officers familiar with courtmartial procedure explained as the court departed that adjournement without definite announcement of acquittal is a military court's courteous way of informing a defendant he has been convicted.

Findings and recommendations of the court will be sent direct to the judge advocate general of the navy at Washington and communicated by him, together with his recommendation for sentence to the secretary of the navy. The verdict is expected to be officially announced in the national capital within a week or two.

Colonel Not On Duty.

Dismissal from service is the maximum penalty possible under naval regulations, but in cases not involving drunkenness on duty the sentence usually does not exceed reduction in rank or numbers. Colonel Williams was not on duty when, as testified by General Butler during the trial he was "full at his home and staggering, gigglingly drunk," at the hotel.

Arguments of counsel at the concluding session of the trial Monday were brief and so was the deliberation of the court after it retired at 11:32 a. m., to ponder on a verdict. Shortly after 12 o'clock departure of the court from the building without notifying the defendant was interpreted in the light of courtmartial precedent as indicating a verdict of conviction probably had been reached and the definite announcement of adjournment "to await action of the convening authority," meaning the secretary of the navy, was issued less than two hours later.

Charge Followed Dinner Party.

The charges against Colonel Williams indirectly grew out of a dinner party he gave at his Coronado home March 6, in honor of General Butler, who was sent to San Diego to relieve Williams as commander of the marine base.

By far the most sensational phase of the trial involved allegations by officers of the defendant's command that General Butler had brow beaten them into changing their written statements s oas to say, "he was drunk" instead of "he was unsteady on his feet," or words to that effect.

The general admitted he had told several officers they were "boys running around in circles" and "had better go back and write true statements or expect to get into trouble." He denied, however, that he had expected to get anything out of them but the truth.

NEW FLOW OF LAVA STARTS

thousand feet behind the village on a front 600 feet wide and 30 feet high. The front wall of the lava flow consisted of red hot clinkers, with immense red boulders rolling over the top.

"By 1 o'clock it had widened to the south and destroyed the telephone line and the branch road. At dusk it was moving one foot per minute. At 11 o'clock a fresh stream was observed coming down the top side of the main flow. The authorities ordered everyone to leave the village. The fresh stream spent itself in widening the main flow.

Pushes Into Village.

"At 4 o'clock another stream poured down undermined the flow head and spreading 1,500 feet wide, pushed into the village like the pilot of a giant locomitive.

"Twenty minutes later still another lava rush came down. When it struck the ocean, the water started to boil and caused snow white spurts. By 9 o'clock there was no village except here and there gigantic coca palms could still be seen standing through dense clouds of steam."

Mauna Loa Dozes.

HILO, T. H., April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—With a threatening gesture of contempt for its audience, Mauna Loa, the "long mountain," quivered, spurted forth several feeble fountains of fire and calmly dozed in a comparatively peaceful sleep last night.

The volcano's last gesture was to send a lava flow racing at twenty to twenty-five miles an hour into the sea for several hours yesterday afternoon just before its activity receded.

Dr. J. A. Jaggar, in charge of the volcano observatory, declined to predict what further disturbance may be expected, but he was positive that the volcano had not yet completed its present eruptive period.

Severe earthquakes rocked the Kau district all yesterday morning while Halemaumau, the pit of Kilauea, continued its avalanches.

BARES POLICIES OF AMERICA ON WORLD ISSUES

viewed, the secretary said, in the perspective of that country's history. He declared the course of the Washington government through China's troubles had been consistent and definite in purpose.

As to the treaty situation between the United States and Turkey, Mr. Kellogg said there had been no departure from the traditional, typical American policy.

Trying To Afford Protection.

"We have endeavored to afford proper protection to all legitimate American activities in Turkey," he added, referring to the pending Lausanne convention.

The secretary referred at length to the arbitration and mediation negotiations undertaken by this government to the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru. He reminded the audience, particularly the Latin-American journalists present as guests of the Associated Press, that the true policy of this country contained no desire for imperialism, acquisition of territory, political or economic domination.

Mr. Kellogg took occasion at the outset of his remarks to extend his "sincere congratulations" to the Associated Press, not only for its work in the United States, but in all the world.

"The organization is admirable," he said, "and in collecting and disseminating news it does a great public service. You are animated by the highest sense of duty to the public as well as to the press. Your news is most carefully prepared, not only in the light of duty to your own members, but of that which you owe to the public and is so recognized throughout the world."

Sees Power of Press.

Mr. Kellogg expressed his appreciation of the power of the press in moulding public opinion.

"It is fully alive to my mind," he said, 'that the government of the United States can only accomplish its purposes with the cordial backing of the great majority of the American people, and this backing is only obtainable when the press is able to treat these questions with understanding and comprehension on the broad lines which the government has pursued."

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Some woman has been attending too many movies or else reading gobs of romance.

I will admit that I'm credulous, because I have found that almost anything can happen in this life. That's why I take most of the letters written me in good faith. Imagination can't touch truth when it comes to queer happenings.

But somehow the following letter doesn't ring true. It sounds, as I said before, as if it were written either by someone experimenting in scenario ideas, or a movie fan, or a romance addict. I don't know which. But I'll ask your opinions:

Dear Minerva: I hope you will excuse the pencil and paper. I am writing after the family has gone to sleep and fear if I stir around to find pen and ink that I will disturb them. I also hope you will regard me as one of your many admirers. I read your Mail most every day and when I read of these youngsters writing of love, some in their early teens, it makes me angry. I don't think they are capable of feeling that way. Would they give their lives for the ones they love? I would gladly give my life if it would benefit the man I love. I am twenty-six years old and love has come to me. But oh, why was it fate should let stray across my path at that time, a married man? For my life, my whole life, is his.

Minerva, I was one of those girls who did not believe in love. I often said to myself and others, is there such a thing? I have been married twice and have a three-year-old daughter by my first husband. I didn't love him. It was infatuation, because I was a mere child. I didn't love my second husband. I married simply for a home. I realized too late that it was impossible. I have been working and supporting my baby and have been somewhat happy. Then fate let stray across my path a married man, and I was not strong enough to resist him.

I was introduced to him one evening about six months ago. Our eyes met and a feeling surged through my body. It is too big. I won't try to explain. Our hands clasped and lingered just a trifle too long. I came to my senses and said "How do you do, Mr....." I knew he was married but the feeling I had I could not explain. I did everything I could to keep out of his way because I thought it would be dangerous for us to meet again. But that one look into each other's eyes told me we were to meet and we had nothing to do with it. I would not have come in contact with him if he was not a friend of my employers. We met often, spoke a few words of greeting, but our eyes always had that understanding that we belonged to each other. Minerva, just the thought that I loved and that my love was returned was wonderful. I, who didn't believe in love and said there was no such thing.

One night I was sitting in a cafe and playing with my food and dreaming when in walked the subject of my dreams. I can't describe the joy. We spoke a pleasant good evening and he politely asked if I would like his company at dinner. I could only look at him but he took it as consent.

Oh, Minerva, if we could have just told what was in our hearts there at the table I don't think things would have gone so far. But, no, it was bound to happen and we couldn't control it.

The next time I met him was at an informal dinner. Everyone was happy. I was so bored when, to my surprise, he arrived. I hadn't known he was acquainted in that crowd. He stepped into the room and after a few pleasant remarks he stepped over to me. I took a step forward and our hands clasped. A whole world of meaning was in that clasp. If I could have escaped in any way, I would have. Later we stepped out for a little air together. There was a moon. We stood looking at the moon. My back was toward him. It seemed we stood that way an hour. But it was only for a moment. He turned me around and his touch was so light. We looked into each other's eyes. It was fully five minutes before I realized I was in his arms.

We talked a while, then went in. My evening was wonderful. I tried to avoid his eyes but couldn't. The next time we met we exchanged a little of our past. He had been married fifteen years and had two children. His wife went her way and he went his. It was a loveless marriage. We came to the conclusion that rather than do wrong, one of us must leave. He had his business here so I went to Omaha. My employer hired another girl but she was not a success and finally he wired me to return at a greatly increased salary. I could not afford to refuse it. I returned, but was always afraid of meeting this man.

It happened one day, just at closing time and I was not prepared for it. I was standing at the window looking down into the street and thinking of him when the door opened and I turned around and saw him with his arms out. His arms around me, he told me he had been nearly frantic trying to locate me and now I was here I was never to leave again.

We could no longer turn our backs on love. It was so big and beautiful. I see him almost every day now. It would be Heaven if we could marry. But we both agree not to hurt his wife and children by his asking for a divorce. I pray every night to have a way showed for us to keep our love undefiled. I have sent my little girl to stay with an aunt who gives her a good home because I am afraid she will wonder and ask questions at his calling at our home. I miss my baby but love him so I would do anything to have him near me while I can.

Minerva, do you think I am awfully bad? It has helped me to tell someone. Twenty-six.

A. Because your letter just might happen to be partly based on facts, and because I would like to get a few ideas unburdened about silly women in general, I will answer your letter as if I took it seriously.

Any woman who would give up the raising of her baby and expose her own good reputation for the very questionable affection of a family man ought to be examined before the lunacy commission.

The man, you notice, wouldn't care to make his wife unhappy, though he says she has been a wife in name only for many years, and he wouldn't let this supposedly unloved wife care for his children alone, no indeed. But, "Twenty-six" cheerfully gives up everything, even her own baby girl, for the caresses of this selfish lover.

Is it possible that any member of my sex can be so dumb as to fall for love like that? Of what good are brains if they are not used?

However, the scenario might film well.

Needs Companionship.

Dear Minerva: Speaking about the letter from "Lonesome Man," I believe Minerva's advice is usually to be taken without dilution. However, I believe she is wrong in her prescription for you. Your trouble is not lack of work, but too much attention to work.

You have for reasons of your own tried to smother yourself for several years, and now you are surprised to find this self still taking an interest in affairs.

Your need is for companionship and friendship with their varied interests. There are those who want to share your interest and want you to share theirs. But they hesitate to penetrate your cloak of aloofness.

As for your intelligence tests, bah! They serve in a measure for certain periods of life, but surely your reading tells you they are in the experimental stage. Did you never hear the story of Michael Nolan?

Your lack of someone to look after? Those who have that privilege and responsibility do not find it an unadulterated joy.

Again you need people with whom to exchange ideas and opinions—people who perhaps envy you.

Have I not diagnosed your case more accurately than Minerva? C.

A. How about it, Lonesome Man? Is C more discerning than Minerva?

DENY GUILT ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Six Enter Pleas In Municipal Court Tuesday Morning.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by five men charged with liquor violations when they were arraigned in municipal court Tuesday following their arrest Sunday in a raid by federal and state officers.

The charges and bonds were as follows: Rudolph Phipps (Orvil Phipps), illegal possession and sale of liquor, bond $1,500; Leslie Willman, possession and intoxication, $600; Virgil Kline, possession and intoxication, $600; Robert Moore, possession and intoxication, $600, and Charles French, possession and intoxication, $1,000.

Hearings for all five were set for Friday, beginning at 2 p. m.

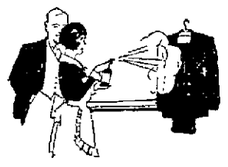

Federal and state officers made the raid Sunday afternoon. They charge they found a quantity of liquor in the possession of each and that several of them were intoxicated.

Phipps was on parole at the time of his arrest. After colliding with three cars in less than fifteen minutes, he was found guilty of intoxication and driving a car while under the influence of liquor. His fine was assessed at $160 and costs. Ten days later he was paroled, to make weekly payments on the fine.

Moth-damage is so unnecessary now!

Any method which attempts to prevent moth-damage by fighting the moth itself is never sure protection.

That such methods fail is proved by every moth-hole you have ever found.

Only one sure protection against moth-attack has ever been discovered.

It is LARVEX—an amazing liquid which mothproofs any woolen thing it is sprayed upon.

LARVEX makes moth-worms harmless, because no moth-worm will eat any woolen thing mothproofed with LARVEX. Moths themselves are harmless. They lay eggs which hatch into moth-worms. The moth-worms do all the eating.

LARVEX is easy to use. Spray it thoroughly on the articles you wish to protect. It penetrates the wool fibres and makes the cloth itself mothproof for an entire season.

No other protection is necessary. No need to pack things away. Clothes are safe hanging in the closets. And they are always available. Never wrinkled. Never smelly. For LARVEX is odorless.

LARVEX is harmless and non-inflammable, too! Use it to mothproof every woolen thing you own.

LARVEX with special atomizer is $1.50. Once you have the atomizer buy LARVEX without atomizer, $1. Or save money—buy the gallon refill size at $5, or the ½ gallon at $3. At drug, department and furniture stores. Get LARVEX today. THE LARVEX CORPORATION, Brooklyn, N. Y.
